TANNER HAD TO GO

His Office Chair Was Vacant Yesterday.

HE WORKED HIS JAW TOO MUCH

The Rebels Took His Legs, and Now Noble Has His Scalp.

LONG CONSULTATIONS WERE HELD

Prominent G A R Men, and His Wife, Urged Him to Stand by His Colors—Speculation as to His Successor.

WASHINGTON Sept 11—It was reported here this morning that Corporal Tanner had been removed and that after to-day he will cease to be commissioner of pensions. The report is generally believed, but has not yet been officially confirmed.

The commissioner was absent from his duty this morning. He was expected at the office at noon, but at 1 o'clock he had not returned. It is believed by some that he has been removed, and by others that he has been temporarily suspended until the results of the investigations of the commission to examine into the affairs of the pension office are made known. It is impossible to find out exactly the state of the case. That his resignation has been requested or tendered, however, is positively denied. Secretary Noble declines to say anything on the subject.

Secretary Noble, Commissioner Tanner and Marshal Ransdell [illegible] in consultation with the president, presumably with relation to the case of Tanner.

THE NEWS IN NEW YORK.

In the Language of President Harrison, Tanner Talked Too Much.

NEW YORK Sept 11—A Washington special says that Tanner bid good by to all the [illegible] in his office last night and was not at his desk to-day.

A special to a morning paper says that President Harrison said to a friend yesterday that Tanner would have to go out of the pension office. He said he was reluctant to part with him on account of the embarrassment it would place him in, considering the endorsement given the commissioner at Milwaukee, but he added it was altogether out of the question to keep him. The president said he had repeatedly talked to Commissioner Tanner and urged him to give his tongue less exercise, "but that everywhere he went and upon the slightest provocation he put his foot into it." It is understood that the commissioner's resignation is at the request of the president and that it will be disposed of within a few days. It for ten days or more has simply been a question of how to drop him without offending the soldiers.

The statement made in the dispatches from this city to the effect that Tanner was to take the place of General Rosecrans as register of the treasury is without foundation. Rosecrans will retire from the position, it is true, but it is not intended to give it to Corporal Tanner.

A special to the Post says: Tanner is out. He has received official notice that his signature will no longer be recognized by the secretary, who has been in close conference with Senator Hiscock. The latter is understood to be pushing Mayor Ieal of Syracuse for the commissionership. General Browne of Ohio is being urged for the place, and will probably get it.

THE CRISIS STILL PENDING.

The Indications Are That Tanner Will Be Removed.

WASHINGTON Sept 11—The crisis in the relations between Secretary Noble and Pension Commissioner Tanner, which according to the former had been reached to-day, continued without settlement, but at that hour to-night, upon the best of authority, it may be said that the commissioner has not been removed nor has his resignation been requested by the president.

The same authority says that it has been patent for some time that serious differences have arisen between Secretary Noble and Commissioner Tanner over questions concerning the administration of the pension bureau, and nothing [illegible] affecting the commissioner's personal action in the sense of imputing any [illegible] to his acts. This same authority [illegible] that these matters related principally to the rerating of pensions of the employes and officials of the bureau and others, and to certain [illegible] of the commissioner in his [illegible] speeches. That is the condition of affairs to-night, but when the authority quoted was asked if it would probably continue so, he declined to commit himself, saying that he had no intention of entering the field of prophecy.

The air has been full of surmises and rumors all day respecting the case of Commissioner Tanner, and the unanimous impression is that a change is imminent.

The commissioner has not been at the office to-day. He spent most of the afternoon at the White house in consultation with the president and Secretary Noble.

The secretary is reported to have said that the president must decide which one of the two he will retain in his present position, the commissioner or himself, but he will not talk of the matter to the newspaper people, and the commissioner at this time is equally uncommunicative.

Since yesterday the position of the case has been [illegible] at the White house. Secretary Noble has had several conferences with the president, and Secretary Tracy, who is generally accepted as the commissioner's friend and advocate, has had many hearings, but what is the result of them all has not been declared. It is generally believed that the principal topic of discussion at these conferences was what to do with Tanner in case a change shall be made in the office of the commissioner of pensions. Two appointments have been discussed in this connection outside of official circles, the United States marshalship for the southern district of New York and the registership. The first it is said that Commissioner Tanner can have if he leaves the pension bureau, without any doubt. As to the other office the president is quoted as saying that he had no intention of removing General Rosecrans. It was said to-day, however, that the president was ignorant until yesterday of the fact that Rosecrans is drawing two salaries from the government, one as register of the treasury and one as a retired brigadier general. The gentleman who mentioned this to him says that the president was much surprised at learning it.

Tanner is reported as being very reluctant to return to Brooklyn.

With the rumors of a change has come a discussion of the possible successor to Commissioner Tanner. Senator Hiscock is credited with pushing the claims of Exposition Agent Pool of Syracuse for the place. Ex-Governor Foster of Ohio, who was alleged to have originated the scheme to provide for Commissioner Tanner by making him register of the treasury, is said to be supporting General Charles Brown of Cincinnati, who was a prominent candidate for appointment with Tanner. It is the general impression that New York will not again be favored if the change is made.

One report to-night was that President Harrison had advised Commissioner Tanner to resign.

General Alger, commander-in-chief of the G A R, Governor Foraker of Ohio and Commander Wilson of Kansas are all said to have telegraphed Tanner urging him not to resign. These messages, together with the influence of his wife, are said to be instrumental in holding the commissioner from following the advice of the president.

To-night a committee of the G A R of the district, headed by General Burdette, ex-commander-in-chief, called at the White house to see the president on behalf of the pension commissioner, but it was after he had retired.

Several of the G A R friends spent the evening with the commissioner, but they declined to say what (if anything) was the result of their conference. The commissioner steadily denied himself to the newspaper men.

GENERAL SHERMAN INTERVIEWED

NEW YORK Sept 11—General W T Sherman was seen by a reporter to-night and asked his opinion in regard to Corporal Tanner's reported resignation. He said that in his opinion it would not affect the allegiance of the G A R either one way or the other, as they were too sensible a body of men to question any acts of the president.

HE HAS RESIGNED

The Commissioner Recognizes That He Can No Longer Be Useful

WASHINGTON Sept 12, 1 A M—The president has received the resignation of James W Tanner as commissioner of pensions. In the letter conveying the resignation it is said that the commissioner writes that he recognizes that differences exist between himself and the secretary of the interior respecting the administration of the pension bureau and that these differences being radical, in the interests of a thoroughly satisfactory administration of the office, he should resign.

A STATEMENT BY THE BUREAU

Explaining the Apparent Increase in Payments of Pensions.

WASHINGTON Sept 11—A statement issued by the pension bureau says: In July and August there were advanced to pension agents on requisition $4,700,000, while the amount disbursed by agents in the same months was $11,486,000. More than half of these disbursements were in payment of cases allowed in the preceding fiscal year and not paid then because of a deficiency in the appropriation, making it necessary to pay these claims out of the appropriation for the fiscal year. This accounts in every particular for the apparent increase in the payment of pensions during July and August.

According to this statement there are 489 725 names on the pension roll. The amount disbursed by the office during the fiscal year ending June 30 1889 was $88 [illegible].

Pensions have been granted as follows: Oregon—Original invalid, Jame Smith of the navy; increase, George Wickham; original widows, etc., minor of Joscelyn B Foulks. Washington territory—Original invalid, John Sinclair.

The commissioner of pensions has appointed Dr A L Fox pension examining surgeon for Heppner Or.

MEETING OF ST PAUL DIRECTORS

A Dividend Declared on the Preferred Stock—The Statement.

NEW YORK Sept 11—The regular semi annual meeting of the directors of the St Paul road was held to-day.

The chief business transacted was the declaration of a dividend on the preferred stock. [illegible] actually considered the semi annual one. The dividend last fall was paid on [illegible] and the one just declared is payable October [illegible]. Both dividends are considered [illegible] the same year, and with the 2 per cent paid in April [illegible] per cent in one year [illegible] the preferred stock must receive before the common stock is entitled to a division of earnings.

Following is the statement presented: St Paul [illegible] for the fiscal year ending June 30—Gross earnings $[illegible]; operating expenses, etc., $16,[illegible]; income from other sources $[illegible]; net revenue for the year $10,[illegible]; interest $[illegible]; [illegible] balance, $1,811,146; dividends on preferred stock [illegible] per cent paid October [illegible] 1888, [illegible] per cent paid April 26 1889 and [illegible] per cent payable October [illegible] 1889, $1,[illegible]; net surplus $[illegible]; surplus July 1 1888, $499,818; total surplus July 1 1889, $908,410.

OUR RELATIONS WITH CANADA.

Meeting of the Senate Committee in Boston Yesterday.

BOSTON, Sept 11—The United States senate committee on relations with Canada began its public hearings in this city to-day. Representative Morse of Canton said he did not think it profitable for the United States and Canada to retain an army of revenue officers on each side of a line 3000 miles long. If Canada would conform its protective tariff to ours and consent to a just adjustment of the fishing difficulty he would favor a reciprocity treaty. The interstate commerce law he considered was most unjust to American railroads, driving business away to parallel lines in Canada. The law should be repealed. It is an outrageous interference with private rights. If not repealed something must be done to protect our railroads from Canadian competition.

President Squire and S B Hibbard of the chamber of commerce believed in annexation as the best solution of the problem.

A Hardy and B J Loutts of Boston were in favor of reciprocity, the latter saying that Canada had much to give in return, as 39 per cent of the fish brought to American ports by American vessels were stolen from within the mile limit, and American fishermen must have Canadian bait.

CONGRESSMAN COX'S FUNERAL.

It Will Take Place at 10 O'clock Friday Morning.

NEW YORK Sept 11—A distinguished list of pall bearers has been selected for the funeral of Congressman Cox. The services at the church will be conducted by Chaplain Milburn of the house of representatives. Among other clergymen who have been invited to take part in the ceremonies by their presence at the church are Monsignor Preston, Rev T Dewitt Talmage, Chief Rabbi Gottheil, Rev D Deems and Bishop Newman. Letters of condolence were received to-day from ex-President Cleveland, Vice President Morton, Senator Voorhees and Congressman Holman.

The funeral will take place at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

FIENDISH "REGULATORS."

They Brutally Murder an Aged Negro and His Daughter.

LAFAYETTE La Sept 11—A brutal murder was committed on the Abbeville road Monday night. Dr Rosemond Cormier, aged 60, was whipped by regulators some months ago, and ordered to leave. He failed to obey. Monday night twenty regulators surrounded his cabin and kicked in the door, Cormier fired, killing John Whitman, and was pursued by the mob, who killed him in the most brutal manner. They also cut the throat of his daughter, aged 18. The coroner's jury is unable to fix the crime on anyone. Before killing Cormier and daughter the regulators flogged two other negroes with the utmost severity.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

Another Day Passes Without a Single Juror Having Been Secured.

CHICAGO Sept 11—The attempt to get a Cronin jury continued to-day. In the progress it was made [illegible] Experts for the defense will be allowed to examine the bloodstains and other inanimate evidence in the presence of experts for the state.

No jurors had been secured up to the hour of adjournment.

CARLSON'S SUIT BEGUN

CHICAGO Sept 11—Jonas Carlson's promised suit against the attorneys of the men on trial for the Cronin murder for breaking into the Carlson cottage was begun to-day. He asks $5000 damages.

FOR POLITICAL TRAINING

John L Sullivan To Be a Candidate for the Common Council of Boston.

BOSTON Sept 11—John L Sullivan's friends, recognizing that he has no political training or experience, propose to give him at least one year in that great school the common council. He will be a candidate from Ward 10, where his home is at present. One of his friends said this morning that Sullivan would not ally himself with any of the factions in that ward, but would endeavor to unite the factions. If he accomplishes that feat he will deserve an election to congress at the hands of the democrats.

BASEBALL.

Yesterday's Games Postponed on Account of Rain—The Brooklyn Squabble.

NEW YORK Sept. 11—All the games of baseball everywhere appointed for to-day were postponed because of rain.

So far the St Louis American club seems to be getting the worst of the recent Brooklyn squabble.

The president of the American association has sent a letter to all the clubs notifying them of the imposition of a fine of $[illegible] 000 on the St Louis club and instructing them to retain all the percentage of receipts due said St Louis club, and report the amount to him.

MISCEGENATION IN MISSOURI.

The First Arrests Made Under the New Prohibitory Statute.

KANSAS CITY, Mo, Sept. 11—In his recent charge to the grand jury, Judge White called attention to the existence of a new state law prohibiting marriage between whites and blacks. The first arrests under the law were made to-day, being Charles Hodgers and the colored woman to whom he was married September 6. Miscegenation has been quite common in this city and a large number of arrests are expected to follow.

Southwestern Soldiers' Association.

ARKANSAS CITY, Sept 11—The annual reunion of the members of the Southwestern Soldiers' Association opened here to-day, delegations being present from Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Kansas. This evening Governor Henley and staff of Indiana, Governor Fifer and staff of Illinois, Governor Humphrey and staff of Kansas, accompanied by Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, and several state officers of the latter state arrived. The governors and Mr Ingalls were tendered a banquet at the Fifth avenue hotel to-night. To-morrow a grand mass camp fire will be held. Four troops of cavalry of the United States army arrived and went into camp with the veterans this evening.

Annual Session of the Military Telegraph Corps.

LOUISVILLE Sept 11—The United States military telegraph corps assembled this morning in annual session in this city. A committee was selected to appear before the next congress to solicit national recognition for the service the members of their association rendered in the time of the civil war.

PHILADELPHIA Sept 11—Superintendent Dayton of the West Jersey and Camden [illegible] railway was seen to-night by an Associated [illegible] representative and was able to give [illegible] report as to the condition of affairs at [illegible] City.

When the tide receded this afternoon [illegible] men made their way from Pleasantville into Atlantic City over the [illegible] railway. Telegraph communication [illegible] same time established [illegible] of the water bound city and reports showed that place to be in much [illegible] than had been anticipated. [illegible] gained circulation here to the effect that a conflagration was raging [illegible] Dayton was informed that half a dozen shanties on the beach at the extreme south end of the island were all that burned. The damage cannot be very great.

Communication was also had [illegible] afternoon with [illegible] Isle City [illegible] of the [illegible] mail [illegible] his way to the mainland [illegible] reports things in very bad shape there. [illegible] wall that was built to protect the [illegible] from the sea has been [illegible] About [illegible] have been washed away.

Newland house, the Sea [illegible] house and [illegible] spere hotel. The Continental hotel [illegible] largest and most important hotel [illegible] is also [illegible] The [illegible] house and the Surf house are [illegible] in danger of destruction to-night.

The Townsend's Inlet bridge, a very important structure, and one hard to replace [illegible] washed away.

AT LONG BRANCH

LONG BRANCH N J, Sept. 11—This is the most severe and damaging storm which has [illegible] this section of the New Jersey sea coast in [illegible] fifteen years. The surf was high and it washed over the end of the great iron pier and tossed the foam and spray 200 feet inland. The bluff has again been badly damaged, and it will cost fully

A TRIP WITH THE HUNTERS.

Duck Shooting at Sauvie's Island and How It Is Done

The Early Start Sunday Morning—Incidents and [illegible] En Route—A Hunter's Outfit, Guns, Shells and Bottles

Weary of the many duck stories with never a [illegible] for their truth, and desirous of [illegible] the exhilarating [illegible] in the [illegible] sport, a reporter last Sunday accompanied a [illegible] to Sauvie's island. The steamer [illegible] at the foot of [illegible] street at 3 o'clock [illegible] had on board a mixed cargo [illegible] baskets and sundry [illegible] of [illegible] in counteracting the deleterious [illegible] bites. It was about 2:30 o'clock [illegible] when the reporter [illegible] bent his footsteps [illegible] street wharf and silently [illegible]. Upon the boat everything [illegible] silence reigned supreme. The footsteps on the [illegible] deck resounded like [illegible] drums and some hesitancy [illegible] proceeding. Within the cabin a different [illegible]. An artist could not [illegible] without instinctively reaching [illegible] sketch book, and the scene reproduced [illegible] attract attention anywhere. [illegible] lay around on the floor and [illegible] on the benches in every conceivable [illegible]; some were doubled up, others [illegible] at full length—all were wrapped in [illegible] slumber. They assumed every possible [illegible] without regard to grace or beauty.

After [illegible] the ground the reporter's [illegible] on an unoccupied bench which was [illegible] possession of [illegible] overcoat, in the [illegible] of which was a box of cartridges and a [illegible] revolver made a safe pillow and [illegible] would be hunter was trying [illegible] oblivion in sleep. About fifty turns [illegible] bench helped to determine which [illegible] body was best able to stand the contact [illegible] the hard surface.

[illegible] o'clock several shrill toots of the [illegible] shook the boat like a small earthquake, [illegible] the arrival of another squad of [illegible], who made more noise than a small [illegible] and the chorus of barks from different [illegible] of the boat was sufficient to announce [illegible] that the start was about to be made. It did [illegible] the most soothing effect on the weary [illegible], but what can not be cured must be [illegible]—a philosophical conclusion which all [illegible].

[illegible] have been about half an hour later—[illegible] was gliding smoothly down the river, [illegible] looked propitious for a quiet little [illegible] when the captain made his usual rounds and [illegible] tones demanded a necktie from [illegible] passenger. A necktie, translated [illegible] $1 for fare. The reporter was about half [illegible] and did not like to be disturbed. Neither did [illegible] to argue with a [illegible] to him unknown. So when the necktie gatherer pulled [illegible] the arm he impulsively put his right hand into his pocket and produced a good [illegible] dollar, knowing at the time that he was [illegible] to journalistic practices, contrary to the dictates of his own conscience and contrary to the principles of his religion. A reporter is [illegible] supposed to pay for anything, and [illegible] when he has his wits about him he [illegible] pay for anything. This case, however, was an exception, for the desire for sleep over[illegible] mental remonstrance.

[illegible] approach of dawn everybody began to [illegible] and soon the noise and confusion which [illegible] corners became general.

The boat [illegible] upon the muddy bank at [illegible] and in trying to pull out some [illegible] got out of gear. In the con[illegible]. The more ambitious [illegible] began to whistle and pace the deck [illegible] the damage was repaired and their hopes [illegible] they thought of the fat mallards and [illegible] their arrival. Their joy, however, was [illegible] duration, for as the boat neared [illegible] too far on shore and [illegible] rickety [illegible] refused to work. This [illegible] was made and the [illegible] became restless and nervous. Several [illegible] general among whom was [illegible] themselves hooking combs and [illegible] of the boat. A [illegible] taken off, he led in the fur [illegible] and [illegible] with small ham [illegible] were ready for use. After this was done the boat proceeded without any more breakdowns.

Small parties got off at Howell's, Keller's, Moo[illegible] island, Hunter [illegible], Dead Willow [illegible] and at [illegible] and then the boat continued its course to [illegible] where it stayed until about [illegible] o'clock, when it started on its way back.

A [illegible] hunting outfit [illegible] is a hot one and is liable to bank for the bottle. Besides the high rubber boots [illegible] cartridges, game bag, dog and gun, [illegible] provides him[illegible] with at least two [illegible] in case of emergency.

It is [illegible] generally known that most hunters [illegible] place implicit [illegible] a blue turban cap as a mascot. [illegible] the bravo of an Egyptian pasha and [illegible] game.

[illegible] generally tells some odd yarns which no one listens to and tries to bluff the [illegible] who want to hunt where he does. His [illegible] not worth mentioning. Others pursue other tactics, but each has a peculiar way of his own in charming the wary ducks.

Last Sunday was a poor day for duck hunting. The lakes are dry and but few ducks were anywhere to be found. The largest bag, consisting of [illegible] ducks, was secured by a young man who shoots for the market. Strange to say, but it is true, that quite a number of the hunters shoot [illegible] all.

The return trip was uneventful. The small parties put off in the morning were taken on board and the boat reached the city about half past eight o'clock.

The boys had ducks and snipe for [illegible].

BOISE CITY.

The Idaho Capital and the Oregon Short Line

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Sep. 7.—In the language of diplomacy, the relations existing between Boise City and the Union Pacific Railroad Company are somewhat "strained." The controversy dates back to the building of the Oregon Short Line. It is well known that the bonds of the Oregon Short Line were sold upon the representation that [illegible] line was to be reached via Boise City and that all the maps issued at that time by the Union Pacific management made Boise City the most prominent [illegible] upon the Oregon Short Line division. But the actual construction of the line was committed to the Omaha management, and that management were all partners in the Oregon & Idaho Land and Improvement Company, a ring of townlot speculators. This ring could get no hold in Boise and hence they started to build new cities and proclaimed that grass would soon grow in the streets of Idaho's capital.

Finding that there was no prospect of securing the Oregon Short Line through negotiation with the Omaha people, the people of Boise City sent a delegation to Boston to plead for their rights, but the directors were guided by the advices they received from Omaha, and nothing could be [illegible]. Boise City next employed a well known Union Pacific engineer to survey a line into the town [illegible] demonstrated that the best, cheapest and [illegible] route lay through Boise City [illegible] for making a plat of the [illegible] Union Pacific office [illegible] of his surveys the O[illegible] Short Line was built [illegible] made their [illegible] people could [illegible] the Union Pacific [illegible] of their error as to [illegible] a line from [illegible] strong enough [illegible].

[illegible] the branch line from Nampa was built [illegible] our people [illegible]. Correspondence [illegible] in the spring of 1888 [illegible] declared that no [illegible] survey of a route placing [illegible] through Boise City had ever been filed with the company, that they had been [illegible] through their engineering department that Boise City lay at the bottom of a dish, that to [illegible] their transcontinental freight down into and [illegible] out of this dish would cost the company more money than all the business of Boise City and Western Idaho was worth.

Such abominable misrepresentations as these simply intensified the sentiment of Boise City against the Union Pacific management. But radical changes have been made at Omaha; the last of the town lot ring is out of authority and the people are again about to test the question whether it is possible to obtain justice from the Union Pacific Railway Company. On May 24, Vice President Holcomb visited this place, and in an interview with a special committee of the directors of our Board of Trade, pledged himself to the effect that if a survey was made under direction of our citizens which would demonstrate that a line could be built through Boise City without material increase of grade or mileage he would take up the matter before the Union Pacific directory, and endeavor to secure justice to our people.

But by August 29 Mr. Holcomb appears to have changed his mind, for without waiting for the survey he wrote to Secretary Clark: "President Adams and myself have visited your city and looked into the question of changing the main line of the Oregon Short Line so as to run it through Boise City. After giving the matter very careful attention it has been decided that it would not be practicable at this time to do this, as it would cost a very large sum of money. * * * I think you will agree with me that our decision is right."

But the Boise City Board of Trade have resolved that they do not concur in any such decision. They brought the matter last night before our city council and that body unanimously took the same stand. They appropriated the means for a new survey, appointed Councilmen [illegible] and [illegible] a committee to co-operate with the directors of the Board of Trade, and the two bodies will place the facts before the railway authorities with such emphasis that somebody will find that our people have been trifled with long enough.

Another disgust has also manifested itself among the people of Boise. The courtesans and their paramours have long held possession of two of the most centrally located blocks in the town and flourished their shame openly. The Statesman opened its batteries upon them a few days ago, the territorial convention of the W. C. T. U. then in session fired a shot in the same direction, on Monday morning last Judge Weir charged the grand jury with special reference to the same evil, yesterday twenty indictments were found, and this morning shows that the [illegible] birds have taken the night for flight. Last evening the city council passed a stringent ordinance which it is hoped will forever prevent their return.

All the building contractors and lumber dealers are pushed to the utmost. It will require until December 1 to complete the new buildings now in hand.

The Idaho Building and Loan Association, [illegible] Kimball president, has just been organized and commenced operations, with prospect of doing a large business in floating building enterprise among us. Confidence, co-operation and self-reliance are the watchwords of Idaho's capital to-day. [illegible] A. C.

ORDERED TO CONCENTRATE.

Troops Will Meet at Cayuse Station, Umatilla Indian Reservation.

Thirteen Companies of Soldiers Will Take the Field—Details—Marching Days—Particular Instructions—Ammunition.

The following general order (No. 14) will require no explanation:

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, W. T., Sept. 3, 1889.

1—The following troops in this department will concentrate on the 2[illegible] inst., at Cayuse station, Umatilla Indian reservation:

Fort Sherman—The band, one troop of cavalry and two companies of infantry, colonel Fourth infantry commanding.

Fort Walla Walla—The band and four troops of cavalry, colonel Second cavalry commanding.

Vancouver Barracks—Six companies of infantry, colonel Fourteenth infantry commanding.

The troops will be equipped in light marching order, and the transportation being scant the least possible tent[illegible] will be taken.

These troops will leave their respective posts in time to arrive at the appointed rendezvous promptly on the designated day.

Number of days marching:

From Fort Sherman, fourteen days.

From Fort Walla Walla, three days.

From Vancouver Barracks, twelve days.

The troops from Vancouver barracks will proceed to The Dalles by water transportation, [illegible] by the wagon transportation [illegible] tentage and such other heavy stores [illegible] until they reach The Dalles.

The colonel of the Fourteenth infantry will designate a [illegible] and small detachment to accompany the train on its march to The Dalles.

2—The commanding officer of each column will regulate the march accordingly and in no event will any column arrive at the rendezvous before the day named. Should an insuperable obstacle prevent the arrival of any column at the rendezvous upon the appointed day, the commanding officer of the column concerned will send forward by courier or telegraph, when possible, to the commanding officer of the camp of concentration, a report of the facts and will state the probable time of arrival of his column. He will also report the same information to these headquarters, by telegraph if [illegible] practicable.

3—Further instructions will be communicated from these headquarters to the commanding officer of the rendezvous.

4—The commanding officers of the different posts above named will detail to accompany the troops:

Fort Sherman—One assistant surgeon, one acting hospital steward and two privates of the Hospital corps.

Fort Walla Walla—One assistant surgeon, one steward and two privates of the Hospital corps.

Vancouver Barracks—One assistant surgeon and four privates of the Hospital corps.

The command from each post will take its ambulance, two litters and sufficient medical supplies for the column.

5—The medical director of the department will give all necessary instructions to the senior medical officer of the camp, Major Alfred C. Girard, surgeon, for the organization of the field hospital.

6—Each column will be accompanied by a fully instructed signal party, consisting of one officer and the necessary number of men.

7—In proceeding from their respective stations to the rendezvous all troops will move as if in an enemy's country. The cavalry of each column will [illegible] the line of march. The different columns will endeavor to establish communication when approaching each other by means of cavalry scouts, or by field signaling.

Particular instructions will be given for the duties of advance, flank and rear guards; streams and defiles will be passed as if in the presence of an enemy; outposts and pickets will be established covering every camp.

The itineraries of the main and scouting parties marching to the rendezvous, kept as prescribed by paragraph [illegible] A. R., will be consolidated and forwarded through the commanding officer of the camp to these headquarters; those on the return march will be forwarded by the commander of each column.

8—The following amount of ammunition, per man, will be taken:

For infantry, fifty rounds of ball and fifty of blank cartridges; for cavalry, for the carbine, fifty rounds of ball and fifty of blank cartridges; for the revolver, twenty-four rounds of ball and forty-eight blank cartridges.

9—The commander of each column will provide in advance at the most convenient railroad points on his line of march such subsistence stores and forage as may be required in addition to that carried on his train, taking care not to exceed the actual requirements of his command, or in case of necessity purchase them on the march.

10—The chief quartermaster of the department will arrange for necessary transportation and will provide for fifteen days forage to arrive at the rendezvous not later than the 16th inst.

The chief commissary of subsistence of the department will place at Cayuse station not later than the 20th inst. 8,000 rations and proportionate supply of stores for sale to officers.

By command of Brigadier General Gibbon.

A GHOST IN THE PLAZA

She was a Woman Dressed in White—Blood Oozed From a Scalp Wound—She Refused to Speak

The following extracts are taken from a letter written to THE OREGONIAN by a man who has been scared out of seven years' growth by seeing what he says [illegible] a real live ghost in the north plaza block:

After apologizing for the very bad [illegible] of the communication and referring to the ridicule it will [illegible] were his identity known, he goes on to say:

"Now I am no spiritualist and have always been opposed to anything of the sort, but what I saw last Sunday night is very strange. As I was out rather late and coming home of course I took the shortest route and cut through the north plaza. While near the west end I saw, as I imagined, a man [illegible] a woman and without fright I [illegible] and [illegible] the man. He ran up to the courthouse and I saw a large wound on the woman's head and blood oozing from it. She was dressed in pure white and it seemed that it was her night gown she had on.

"But now comes the mystery. I spoke in a firm voice to the woman, who answered not, and upon my starting toward her, she suddenly disappeared, and I at once took to my heels and ran. If there is any such a thing as a ghost, that surely was one, for to-day I went to the very spot where I saw that great tragic affair, and there was no sight of blood or of a struggle, and as I have told you before I never believed in any such stuff, but since I have seen it I must believe that there is something in it, for I would not go through the plaza again for $1000."

In conclusion the correspondent states that he has been in business here for sixteen years, but he will not divulge his name for fear of the scoffs and ridicule of his friends. He forgot to add, however, what particular brand of liquor he had been drinking before [illegible] to the plaza on that memorable night. His [illegible] must have been greatly influenced by very strong [illegible] juice to have conjured up such a [illegible] apparition.

ALASKA'S ANIMAL LIFE.

Fish, Fur Bearing Animals and All Varieties of Game in Abundance.

Alaska fairly teems with animal life. The sea along its shores and all its rivers, inlets and lakes are filled with an inexhaustible supply of the largest and finest fish. Fishing is one of the principal industries of the country and fully fifty large fisheries are engaged in packing the fish that are shipped to almost every country in the world. It is a perfect paradise for sportsmen.

The islands in Behring's sea, says the Astorian, as well as the mainland were fairly overrun with great herds of all kinds of fur bearing animals. Along the northern coast are great herds of walrus which are valuable for their meat and ivory tusks. The sea cow, which used to be found here, has become extinct. In the interior parts of the country and in the north are the greatest breeding places for birds in the world. For miles the country will be covered with myriads of geese, swans, ducks and a hundred other varieties of the feathered tribe. They feed on the wild berries and become so fat toward the close of the season that they can hardly fly, and the natives knock them over with clubs by the hundreds.

The canvas back ducks have their breeding places on the Yukon, the principal river of Alaska. There is one point on the western coast of Alaska where on a clear day it is possible to see the Asiatic coast, thirty-eight miles away. The natives of Eastern Siberia and Alaska often exchange trading visits and cross the strait in open boats.

CENTRALIA AS THE CAPITAL

Another Town in Western Washington Anxious to Have the State House.

Citizens Will Donate 100 Acres of Land on a Hill at the Base of Which Flows the Skookumchuck River

CENTRALIA, W. T., Sept. 6, 1889.

Centralia is fast coming to the front among the important towns of Washington territory. There will be nearly 400 houses built in Centralia this year. This will be the greatest building record any town on the coast has ever made according to the population. Engineers have been employed for the past few weeks running levels and making estimates of cost for city water. The gravity scheme seems to be the most feasible and the north fork of the Newaukum will be the water. The distance will be about twelve miles.

THE CAPITAL QUESTION.

Centralia is bidding for the honors of the capital. The promoters of the movement have agreed upon the donation of 100 acres of land for the erection of the capitol and the public buildings of the state. Twenty acres of this land will be quite enough for grounds and public buildings. The remaining eighty acres can be [illegible] and sold [illegible] enough to go far toward [illegible] the capitol building. This [illegible] that will go far to popularize the claim of Centralia to capital honors.

Moreover the site offered is a superb one. It is on a hill at the north end of town, at the base of which flows the Skookumchuck river [illegible] its junction with the [illegible]; the united rivers wind around the hill [illegible] the valley on the other side. It is proposed to erect the capitol on the crest of the hill, [illegible] the spot where the waters of the two rivers meet.

No more charming nor sylvan scenery can be had in Washington than that obtained from the brow of this hill. [illegible] winding course of the Chehalis [illegible] south with [illegible] covered with [illegible] cedar, or with the fruit of [illegible] and [illegible] west along the valley is revealed still lovelier scenery [illegible] panorama [illegible] but a few minutes walk from the proposed [illegible] depot.

The other competitors for capital honors need to be generous indeed before they can offer so superb a [illegible] site for the capitol as that which Centralia proposes to give. [illegible] such a site would [illegible] the saving of a quarter of a million dollars, and this will have [illegible] influence [illegible] the choice of the electors.

But it is not on this [illegible] alone that the people of Centralia rely. They claim that Centralia is the most central point in Western Washington for the location of the state capital. Before a year will have rolled [illegible] the construction [illegible] to Gray's Harbor and Port Townsend will be completed and it is a mere question of time to run the Gray's Harbor road through [illegible] to North Yakima. Tacoma and Seattle are both in closer connection by rail with Centralia than with Olympia. And the towns as well as the Port Townsend people will find it more convenient for them to have the capital at Centralia than at Olympia.

Of course Gray's Harbor people and those from Vancouver and the Columbia will all support Centralia at first, and for reason that the people east of the mountains are compelled to come West [illegible] for the nearest point [illegible] of all that has been said to the contrary I believe the people of Western Washington will support the proposition to locate the capital west of the mountains. On the west are the mining, manufacturing and commercial interests of the state, the large mass of the people are and must continue to be located here, and it is absurd to expect the majority will vote themselves to inconvenience and expense to [illegible] the agricultural population east of the mountains.

Merchants, traders, manufacturers and lawyers want to have the capital within easy reach of the main lines of travel. The business at the state courts or with the state executive needs dispatch, and they will not see why they should be compelled to go east of the mountains in unseasonable weather in order to satisfy a minority on the east side of the mountains. Those who favor the capital question here will work hard to accomplish the results. Olympia can have no better inducements to offer than we. The simple fact of her [illegible] the [illegible] of Olympia are not likely to count for much in the coming struggle for the capital. D. B. [illegible]

The Resources and Rising Industries of Far Off Australia.

Mr. M. Zan Gives a Reporter His Impressions of the Country—The City of Melbourne—Foreign Commerce—Etc.

Mr. M. Zan, of the firm of Zan Bros., returned to Portland [illegible] several days ago. Mr. Zan's trip [illegible] and though he [illegible] had to get back to the only and [illegible] Webfoot state, he speaks [illegible] of the [illegible] prospects of the new and undeveloped island empire.

"Yes, I am glad to get back," replied he in response to the reporter's query, "for there is no place like home. I had a most delightful return trip on the steamer New Zealand, and from San Francisco I came overland.

"We left San Francisco on the steamer Mariposa early in March, and passed the Samoan islands soon after the terrible storm which wrecked the German and American fleets in Apia harbor. Our boat anchored at Tutuila, about sixty miles from the scene of the disaster, and there we received the first news. No passengers got off but a United States officer, and a reporter on the Sydney Herald made the rest of the trip with us to Melbourne. We carried the first news of the storm to Auckland.

MELBOURNE A BEAUTIFUL CITY.

"I spent most of my time," continued Mr. Zan, "at Melbourne, where I had special business to attend to. I also took a run over to Sydney and to New Zealand.

"Melbourne is a beautiful city and compares favorably with many of our larger American cities. The buildings are large, substantial and attractive. The streets are wide and the place has decidedly a metropolitan appearance. The city proper is divided into eight municipalities, each having its own municipal government. Though the city is compact, after a person lives there a while he can see that these municipalities are separated from each other by wide streets having on each side a row of magnificent shade trees. Another striking feature that at once attracts the attention of a stranger on a visit to the city is the many beautiful parks and botanical gardens. Some of them are large, while others are only small bits of charming landscape filled with choice flowers and shade trees and beautified in every way that art and the ingenuity of man can suggest. These squares or parks formerly were used by sheep herders who drove their flocks through the city. The herds had to be kept somewhere over night and in this way these patches of ground were reserved for future parks.

"The hotels of Melbourne are run on the European plan. The accommodations are good and the cost of living is about the same as here. At a first class hotel the rates are about $4 a day.

AUSTRALIAN JOURNALISM.

"Journalism there is enterprising and progressive, as here in the states. The price of a good newspaper has come down to 2 cents. The cable dispatches are [illegible] owing to the cost of transmission, but the local news is given in full. Some of the 2-cent papers are much larger than THE OREGONIAN, and they contain considerable good reading matter too.

AGRICULTURE AND VITICULTURE.

"Australia is developing many of her industries to an extent that is surprising. The land is good and all kinds of grains and vegetables are raised. Last year the country had a drouth and the crops in many districts were [illegible] the farmers. This year the prospects for a heavy yield are excellent. The country has [illegible] and the outlook for a prosperous year is very favorable.

"[illegible] culture is at present [illegible] in its infancy, [illegible] to develop [illegible] several vineyards [illegible] years ago as an experiment and [illegible] considerable [illegible] quality and sells at [illegible] a gallon.

SHEEP RAISING AND MINING.

"Sheep raising continues to be one of the leading industries. It is estimated that [illegible] New South Wales alone there are 50,000,000 sheep. [illegible] Last [illegible] of sheep from the [illegible] drouth is variously estimated from one tenth to one fourth of the entire number.

"Mining is one of the largest sources of revenue. [illegible] silver mine near Adelaide is the richest in the world. It is operated by the best improved machinery [illegible] carried on extensively in many places, the ground being torn up for miles and miles. [illegible] Company, which probably owns the [illegible] property, last year declared a dividend of £1,000,000 sterling.

"Wages in Australia are lower than in the United States. Agricultural labor commands on an average $[illegible] a day, which makes the one exception to the general rule. Eight hours a day's work, but within recent times it has been next to impossible to get hold of land. A person could lease it for almost any length of time, but it was not to be bought. In New Zealand, the government is selling good agricultural land for from $5 to $7.50 an acre.

TRANSPORTATION AND IMMIGRATION.

"In matters of transportation Australia is far behind our country. The railways are a puzzle, being neither narrow gauge nor broad gauge. The coaches are primitive affairs and the accommodations are far from [illegible]. The railway in each colony is of a different gauge, so that it is impossible to go from one to the other without change of cars.

"Immigration with Australia is not as heavy as one would suppose, considering the fact that it is a comparatively new country.

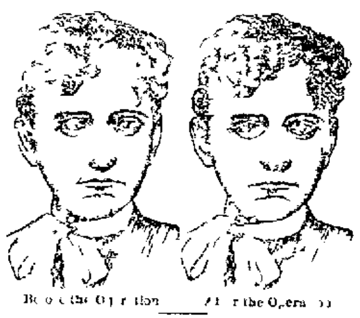
"From the calculations I made in counting the passengers on incoming steamers [illegible] and say that no more than 400 permanent immigrants arrive each month. The country is so far away from everywhere else, and passage is still so high, that immigration for a while will remain light.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

"The benefit England derives from her trade with the Australian colonies amounts to millions of dollars each year. Within the past few years, however, Germany has been coming in for a large share [illegible] and at present she is dividing the [illegible] with England. More than this, Germany is strengthening her commercial relations each [illegible] and in time she may command more of the trade than England does to-day. The United States in that country is comparatively unknown. [illegible] stars and stripes are nowhere to be seen and [illegible] difficulty in exchanging United States money even in the largest banks. The coin of the realm is English money, with different provincial stamps affixed for the different colonies.

[illegible]

[illegible] to [illegible] $50,000 to look over the city and express his opinions as to what should be done."



Before the Operation. After the Operation.

Miss Lena Hamilton [illegible]

DAYTON, W. T., Sept. 2, 1889.

Drs. Darrin—My Dear Sirs: I arrived home Sunday. My eye is all right. It is a surprise to all my friends how any man can straighten such crooked eyes as mine were in so short a time. I shall never forget your great kindness and benefit to me. Please accept my gratitude again.

[illegible] HAMILTON.

An Express Reporter Who Saw the Patient.

Miss Lena Hamilton, a young lady who lives with the family of Mr. L. W. G[illegible], a prominent citizen of Dayton, W. T., was in the city last week and had an operation performed on one of her eyes which had been very badly crossed for seven years. The young lady's eyes were perfectly straight until she was 15 years old, after which time, she says, the sight of her face in the glass was enough to make her cry, as severe contraction of the muscles of the face caused the left eye to become very badly out of shape.

Dr. Darrin, of 235 Fifth st., Portland, performed the delicate operation of straightening the crossed eye most satisfactorily and Miss Hamilton left for Dayton the next day, pleased to find expression on her face was no longer disfigured and that a natural expression had been restored to her eyes.—Express.

THE CRITTENDEN COMPROMISE.

Orator Lewis, addressing the democratic convention in Washington, said:

> When they tell us that our party caused the war, tell them that in congress the democratic party advocated the Crittenden compromise, which, if adopted, would have saved the country all the blood and treasure wasted in the war.

Orator Lewis could never have read the history of the Crittenden compromise, or he would know that its rejection was due to the fact that six democratic senators from the South who were present deliberately refused to vote, in order to kill the measure. Greeley in his "American Conflict" says that "the democrats were able to establish the Crittenden compromise had they been disposed to do so. They had the president; the senate and the house. It was only by the withdrawal of the pro-slavery members that the measure was defeated." The substitute for the Crittenden compromise was adopted in the senate by 25 yeas to 24 nays, but six southern senators, though present refused to vote, when they could have defeated the substitute by 25 yeas to 30 nays and on a direct vote for the Crittenden resolution the democracy would have had at least one republican vote, that of Baker, of Oregon. The whole matter came up again in January, 1862, when Andrew Johnson, who steadily voted for the Crittenden compromise in January 1861, quoted Senator Latham, who also voted for it, in proof of his statement that the Southern democracy by prearrangement had not only determined to defeat the Crittenden compromise, but would have refused to stay in the Union if they had been given a blank sheet upon which to write the terms of compromise. Johnson and Latham testified that the Southern senators suffered the Crittenden compromise to be defeated because "they wanted no compromise." Even after the democratic senators from seven states of the South had seceded the two houses passed a proposition to amend the constitution so as to guarantee to the states perfect security for slavery in all future time, and absolutely prohibiting congress from legislating upon the subject, and it was spurned by the Southern democracy, who did not want compromise, but sought to defeat it. The so-called Corwin joint resolution was adopted in March, 1861, a more abject compromise measure than that of 1850, which Webster voted for and was roundly censured for doing it. From first to last in all that great debate, from December, 1860, to March, 1861, there was no time when war could not have been prevented by the Southern democracy in congress, whose action not only defeated the Crittenden compromise, but whose influence was afterwards arrayed against the acceptance of compromise measures, enacted by both houses of congress, which left nothing of the slavery question to dispute about. In the language of Senator Andrew Johnson: "When we were left, by the withdrawal of the Southern democracy, in the hands of those whom we had been taught to believe would encroach upon our rights, they gave us in the constitutional amendment and in the territorial bills all that ever had been asked." And yet Orator Lewis, in his ignorance of history or his contempt for truth, tells the democratic convention that "matters might have been compromised, and that if it had not been for the defeat of the Crittenden compromise there would have been no bloody war of rebellion." So fearful were the receding senators that these compromise measures might make Virginia hesitate to secede that Sumter was fired upon to stir her blood and close her ears to compromise. On the other hand the republicans were so abjectly anxious to save the Union by compromise that they were at all times willing to call a convention of the states, as originally suggested by the Kentucky legislature; they were willing to pay the South for any fugitive slaves that the North failed to return to bondage; they offered to admit New Mexico, then a slave territory by act of her legislature; they enacted Corwin's abject compromise; they passed a joint resolution precluding forever any action of congress adverse to the perpetuation of slavery in such states as should desire such perpetuation; they organized three new territories in utter silence respecting slavery, leaving the South, in full possession of all her rights under the constitution, as expounded in the Dred Scott decision. So abject was the spirit of compromise among the republicans in congress that the shot at Sumter was welcome, because it closed the door against further propositions for shameful surrender. If ever a party hung out the white flag to the democracy, bent on war in 1861 it was the republican party in its passionate desire for peace.

A BLURRED RECORD.

Samuel S. Cox, who died on Tuesday, was born at Zanesville, O., September 30, 1824; was graduated at Brown university in 1846; studied and practiced law; was the owner and editor of the Columbus (Ohio) Statesman in 1853 and 1854; was secretary of legation to Peru in 1855; represented the Columbus (Ohio) district in the 35th, 36th, 37th and 38th congresses; removed to New York city on the 4th of March, 1865; represented the New York city democracy in the 41st, 42d, 43d, 44th, 45th, 46th, 47th, 48th and 50th congresses, and was elected to the 51st congress. He was appointed minister to Turkey in 1885, but after a year's service resigned and re-entered congress.

In the death of Mr. Cox the democracy lose their most brilliant and versatile congressman. Inferior to Randall in robust power of intellect and force of character; inferior to Carlisle in legal knowledge and acumen, Mr. Cox in general culture and varied intelligence, in everyday working ability as a legislator, was the most successful and useful member of the democratic side of the house. He had served twenty-six years in congress; he had been lawyer, editor, diplomat, author, lecturer, traveler and politician; he had a bright and active mind; was industrious and temperate in his habits, and his wealth of information, joined to his ability as a debater, enabled him always to hold his place in the front rank of the house during his long career. He was the author of the last congressional reapportionment bill, and after the election of Harrison was conspicuous in persuading the democracy to consent to the admission of Montana, Washington, and Dakota. He was the author of much valuable legislation for the benefit of New York city and its harbor, and by his genial temper and his tact was singularly successful in the enactment of his measures, which on non-political subjects were always instinct with high intelligence, liberality and practical sense. His private character was excellent, and his amiable disposition made him deservedly popular with men of all parties.

There is another and a darker side to his picture, however, and it is due to the truth of history to recite the ugly spots that blur his otherwise excellent record of public service. Mr. Cox served continuously in congress from March 1857 to March 1865. He was an obsequious Northern doughface before the war, and he was a Vallandigham copperhead all through the war. He was one of the speakers at the great democratic mass meeting that assembled at Springfield, Illinois, June 17, 1863, where Vallandigham was cheered and resolutions denouncing the further prosecution of the war and calling for peace were passed, with Grant before Vicksburg and Lee moving towards Philadelphia. Mr. Cox stumped Ohio for Vallandigham; he voted against the expulsion of Harris and Long for treasonable language, and voted persistently against the thirteenth amendment abolishing slavery, although George Bancroft, the historian, his old time democratic friend, begged him to vote for it. In the last vote taken, January 31, 1865, Cox voted "no" with Harris, Long, Benjamin and Fernando Wood, George H. Pendleton and other notorious copperheads. Mr. Cox declared in debate that "under no circumstances conceivable by the human mind would he ever violate the constitution for any purpose; that outside the pale of the constitution the whole war was revolutionary, and no less treasonable than secession itself." He pretended to be a Jeffersonian democrat, and yet he here assumed a position that Jefferson distinctly repudiated, for Jefferson in 1810 wrote: "A strict observance of written laws is doubtless one of the highest duties of a good citizen, but it is not the highest. The laws of necessity, of self-preservation, of saving our country when in danger, are of higher obligation. To lose our country by a scrupulous adherence to written law would be to lose the law itself, with life, liberty and property, and all those who are enjoying them with us; thus absolutely sacrificing the end to the means."

Mr. Cox was one of those who strove for perpetuation of slavery, and never had a cheering word for freedom.

A MANUFACTURING EDITION.

THE OREGONIAN of next Monday will be a sixteen page paper, with a large, full-sheet, illustrated supplement, giving views of Portland and her great and growing industries. The center illustration is of the mammoth reserve power of Portland, the falls of the Willamette at Oregon City. Underneath this is a view of Portland as it appears stretched out for miles along the river, the picture being taken from a point upon the eastern hills below Albina. Grouped above and around these, central views are sketches of the most prominent of the many industries of this city, some of which have been long established, while others are of quite recent foundation. Eight pages of this sixteen page edition will be the regular daily newspaper; the other eight will be devoted to the manufactories of Portland and of its thriving suburb, Oregon City, where lies the power, dormant for ages, that is to make this one of the most important manufacturing points in the United States.

No expense has been spared in connection with the preparation of this especial edition; great care has been taken in the writing and the arrangement of the descriptive matter and in the compilation of statistics regarding the amount of business done and the rapid growth and increase of industries; and the illustrations bespeak to the eye their own excellence. Every regular subscriber to THE OREGONIAN, by mail or by carrier, will receive a copy of this special edition free of charge. Extra copies may be had in any number by application at the counting room, at 15 cents each.

The platform of the Washington democracy includes the following passage:

> The sums of money required to meet the regular annual expenses of the government, the building and maintenance of a navy and other great national works, and the payment of vast appropriations for pensions, require a revenue of such enormous proportions that we believe a tariff for these objects, wisely laid and adjusted, will afford all the protection needed by the deserving industries of the country; and we arraign the republican party for so organizing the tariff as to foster unnecessary monopolies, to oppress the weak and struggling industries.

This attempt to be free trader and protectionist at the same time is exactly in line with the language of Congressman Campbell, of Ohio, a protectionist, who voted for the Mills bill last winter, when he addressed the Ohio democratic convention the other day accepting the nomination for governor.

"We believe in a tariff restricted to the needs of the government, yet so adjusted as to prevent inequalities, afford full compensation to labor, encourage productive industries, and destroy monopolies. The protective system fosters trusts and trade conspiracies." The N. Y. Sun quotes the words of Campbell with the following incisive comments:

> No man can be a genuine free trader if he proposes to retain any tariff at all. The pretence that a tariff is necessary is humbug. All the money that is necessary to pay the expenses of the government, and to provide for the interest on the payment of the debt, can be furnished by internal revenue taxation. That would give us genuine and unadulterated free trade with foreign nations. There need be no tariff at all. The custom houses, and all their train of officers and servants, may be entirely dispensed with, and then the only federal tax gatherers will be those who take in the internal revenue. Then we can have foreign free trade in earnest, and every trace of the protective system may be swept away.

Judge B. F. Dennison makes the following announcement "to the voters of Clarke and other counties":

> Believing that the office of judge is not a political office, and that the administration of justice should be free from partisan bias or prejudice, offer myself as an independent candidate for superior judge in the counties of Clarke, Skamania, Cowlitz, Wahkiakum and Pacific.
>
> I do so at the request of many citizens, and if elected I shall be indebted therefor to the people, and not to machine politicians.
>
> B. F. DENNISON.

It would have been well had Judge Dennison bethought himself at an earlier day that the office of judge is not a political office, and that it should not be sought through a political party. Had he done so he would not now be in a position which must be very trying to a man of honorable instincts. He sought the republican nomination, but not getting it, now comes out as an independent candidate, on the ground that "the office of judge is not a political office," and that "the administration of justice should be free from partisan bias," Judge Dennison is not in an honorable position.

Another butchery, the worst in the revolting series of the Whitechapel murders, is reported from that notorious district of London, and still the monster who committed it has not been apprehended. Such repeated outrage in a district patrolled constantly by the police, without the slightest clue having been obtained to the perpetrator, makes all the world stand aghast before the dark possibilities of crime. The display of fiendish cruelty that has been a feature of these murders marks the perpetrator as a maniac, while his successful hiding renders it certain that he must be possessed of a degree of cunning usually incompatible with so ferocious a type of madness.

The death of the freight conductor who made a mistake in measuring the distance between two moving cars at Albina a few days ago and fell between them was expected from the nature of the shocking injuries that he received. The casualty was one of the few by which men lose their lives on railroads for which no one was to blame. The victim himself can scarcely be considered censurable for the act, since it was one which he had no doubt performed many times with entire safety. The best friend of a man so horribly mutilated could scarcely wish him to survive a disaster that would make life a burden to him henceforth.

The Oregon Pacific is now preparing to push construction work as rapidly as possible towards the summit of the Cascades. The management at Corvallis state that a few days more will see a largely increased working force operating at and beyond the front, to complete connection with the work already done at the summit. Everything that can be done will be done to construct the uncompleted portion this season. One of the richest sections of the state, the fertile bottom of a great inland sea, is waiting the advent of this railroad to spring into new life, to put forth beautiful farms, great towns, and furnish homes for thousands upon thousands. If anyone doubts that the railroad will do all this, let him recall the condition of Eastern Washington before the building of the Northern Pacific. Spokane Falls, North Yakima and Ellensburgh are the most striking monuments to that progress and prosperity that ever rolls onward with the railroad train.

The campaign in Washington will be short and sharp. Everything is not as harmonious among the voters as it was in the conventions, and there is every evidence that the contest will be an exceedingly active one. Besides the work of the candidates which will be done in the regular way, advocates of the separate articles to be submitted with the constitution will make a strong fight for each of these. Indeed, this promises to be the "wordiest" feature of the campaign, though candidates will, for obvious reasons, make it a point to keep clear of these articles unless forced to declare themselves. In short, the contest will be a campaign of ideas, or, as some of the more conservative declare, of "isms." One thing is clear. The people of Washington have been in the habit of thinking their own thoughts and voting their own sentiments for some time past—a fact which makes that commonwealth one of the most politically progressive sections of the nation.

When "Corporal" Tanner was first spoken of for the office of commissioner of pensions THE OREGONIAN plainly said that he was unfit for the position, and if placed in it would bring discredit on the administration. It was plain enough that he did not possess the qualifications necessary for the duties of the office; that he was wanting in the discretion and judgment necessary for proper management of so large a trust, and that he was only a mouther and ranter who was banking on the loss of his legs in the war. Men who talk as much as Tanner does and say so little never can be men fit for business affairs. The denouement in the case of Tanner is what THE OREGONIAN has predicted from the first. It is not rendered more pleasing by the fact that it was largely upon the recommendation of Oregon's delegation in congress that Tanner was appointed. Now let us hope we shall never have Tanner lifting up his braying voice in Oregon again.

Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, better known as "the mother of John L.," died on the 30th ult., in her little home in Boston and was interred with great funeral pomp two days later. An enormous crowd attended the funeral, most of whom were drawn thither by an eager desire to see her son John, who, reasonably sober, considering the sad circumstances, followed the casket beside his father. The occasion was notable for the number, elegance and cost of the flowers, contributed by admirers of the pugilist, all along the line from Denver and New Orleans to Boston. An elaborate description of each piece was published in the Boston papers, which together with an outline of the services in St. Patrick's church, allusions to "her son John," and a detailed account of the frantic efforts of the crowd to "see how he took it," makes up one of the most unique funeral notices of the age.

The Mississippi democratic convention has adopted a platform which contains this plank:

> We must show the world that that race created to govern, and that has governed all other races where thrown in contact, will in Mississippi stand by the common civilization of the Union which that race has constructed and maintained, and that it will never consent to be ruled by any other race as a race manipulated by renegades. The flag of a Caucasian civilization must float triumphantly at the South and in every other section of this proud land and throughout Christendom.

Yet we read in democratic newspapers of Oregon that it is a libel on the democracy of the South to assert that they oppose the free exercise of suffrage by citizens of the colored race.

Not long ago THE OREGONIAN had some remarks on Edward Bellamy's book—"Looking Backward." We are told in reply that "Bellamy is the practical leader of a deep and vital movement—the emancipation of humanity from the bonds of the most real slavery that has ever enchained it, the mocking serfdom of apparent liberty under industrial bondage." That means, if it means anything, that Bellamy is the man who is to show us all how to get our living without being obliged to work for it.

The first campaign of the new state of Washington began at Vancouver last evening, where a most brilliant reception was given Hon. John L. Wilson, the republican nominee for congressman. A full report of the meeting and a concise synopsis of the remarks of the speakers appear in our telegraphic columns. It is the work of our energetic Vancouver correspondent, Mr. M. F. Ellrich.

It requires a good deal of brass in the democracy of Washington territory to pronounce the declaration that the democratic party had prevented the territory from becoming a state "a willfully false statement," when it is remembered that Voorhees last year attributed his tremendous defeat to this very cause.

LEWIS COUNTY.

The rapidity with which Lewis county is being settled up is without a parallel in the history of the settlement of this country. And still more gratifying is the fact that most of the settlers come from the Eastern states, and are good judges of the value of agricultural lands and the uses for which it is suitable. Since January 1, 1889, over 20,000 acres of N. P. Railroad land has been sold in Pierce and Lewis counties. The area is enormously large, but it remains to be stated that all of this vast amount has been parceled up in farms of from 80 to 160 acres. The wise policy of the land department of the company has been to keep the large speculator out of their agricultural lands and reserve them for actual settlers. The lands are being sold off very cheap. Many of them are appraised less than half of what adjoining lands of no better quality can be bought for. Landseekers find these lands more desirable than government lands, because the amount of money to be put out the first year is so small that it practically enables the settler to make the land pay for itself. If the settler has a trade or can occupy his time more profitably elsewhere than on the land, he is at liberty to go where he wishes without any fear of having his "claim jumped." He knows that he will get a title that no court can impeach, and he gets within easy reach of the best markets in the country for all farm, garden and orchard produce. Lewis county is watered by the Chehalis and Cowlitz Rivers and a great number of smaller streams. The soil and climate make the lands there peculiarly adapted for agriculture.

Several other railroad companies are reported to be heading for this valuable section in order to compete for the heavy carrying trade that it will soon have to offer. The price of these lands is

From $3.75 to $7 Per Acre,

Payable in annual installments in five or ten years as the purchaser may wish.

We are agents for the sale of these lands, and constantly keep a large corps of competent and trustworthy land examiners in the field. We give the most accurate information obtainable about any particular tract to intending purchasers, and show them the land FREE OF CHARGE. Persons desiring a country home should bear in mind that this excellent opportunity can not last long at the rate lands are going now.

Inquiries concerning any particular tract or any particular settlement will be answered promptly and fully by

It Is Doubtless "Jake" Nenstadt Whose Wife Has Left Him.

Iron Arrives for the South Coast Railroad—The Free Bath House is Again in Shape —Other Notes.

IT IS DOUBTLESS JAKE.—The Henry Nenstadt mentioned in the dispatches yesterday as being deserted by his wife in New York is doubtless Jake Nenstadt, a San Francisco drummer, well known here, whose reputation was such that her husband should have felt it necessary that her husband should be very kind or very forgiving. She was rather pretty and put on a good many airs. Her lineage, says the Telegram, was not quite as aristocratic as a casual observer would be led to believe. Her father, a man named Cohen, kept a small clothing store in Langley, New York, where she was quite a flirt when a young girl. Her facial beauty captivated a nephew of D O Mills, then residing there, and he would have married her but for the interference of his elder brother, who sent him and his baggage home to New York.

MAYOR DELASHMUTT BUYS A COLT.—Mayor DeLashmutt yesterday purchased a bay colt of George Wilkes Simmons of Lexington Ky for which he paid $5000. Mr Simmons is the owner of George Wilkes, the sire of William L, the best 4-year-old of Axell, who has the best 4-year record in the world. Mayor DeLashmutt's new colt was sired by William L. His first dam was Miss Leggett by Mambrino Star 685. Miss Leggett's record is 2.41¼. Her first dam was Lady Simmons, the dam of the Volunteer, the sire of St. Julien, who has a record of 2 11¼, Clouster 2 17, Alley 2 19¼, Drum 2 19½, Amy 2 20¼, Dip Bud 2 19¼, Huntsman 2 20¼, and nineteen other 2:30 class and the dams of Amelia C 2 20¼, Stephen C 2 20¼ and fourteen others having records ranging from 2 20 to 2 30.

SOUTH COAST RAILROAD.—Twenty car loads of iron for the Astoria & South Coast railroad have arrived here. The iron is loaded on cars belonging to the same company and the cars with the iron on them will be shipped to Skipanon by the O. R. & N. Co. An incline will be built at Skipanon so that they can be run ashore without unloading, and the iron sent to the front as fast as it is needed. The road is graded from Skipanon to the Ocean house, and the graders are now employed on the branch to the Willamette valley. The junction of this branch with the main line is about eleven miles out from Skipanon.

THE BATH HOUSE AGAIN IN SHAPE.—The Portland free bath house once more presents the scenes it presented there before the collision with a river steamer about five weeks ago. All the damage has been repaired and the festive bather is again in possession. The structure has been moved a little further up stream so as to escape the sewerage which emptied into the river near its former moorings. The gangway has been extended to reach it and everything is again ship shape.

Mr Dillon was much pleased with the country and greatly impressed with the yield of the wheat belt he passed through on the way to Pendleton and was delighted with the Grand Ronde valley, which he thought was one of the most beautiful spots he had ever seen.

DECIDEDLY COOL.—There was a coolness in the atmosphere yesterday morning which caused fires to be kindled in many places where there has been none for months. The next thing there will come a frost or nipping frost which will cut down those tomatoes, pumpkins, vines and other tender plants, and tender sweet ng away and soon October with gay liveries of scarlet and orange, will be at hand.

TO BE ROOFED.—The streets in the vicinity of the house are strewn and piled with timbers and many have wondered what use they are to be put to. They are for a roof to the Musee and as it is a large one or rather two of fifty feet span each, it is necessary that the timbers should be strong. The roof will be covered with corrugated iron and with other improvements will cost $5000.

SNEAK THIEVES.—Sneak thieves are beginning to get in their work around the city. Yesterday morning one of the nimble fingered gentry entered the residence of Robert E Bybee and took a pocket book containing $17 50 which was lying on the dining room table. It is hardly necessary to add that nothing has since been heard of the man or the money.

EXPOSITION DAILY.—The contract for the exclusive right of publishing the daily paper at the coming exposition was awarded to A Anderson & Co printers and lithographers. The paper will be printed every day at the exposition building on good book paper. Mr Leo Peterson has charge of the advertising department of this publication.

TACOMA RESTAURANT.—One of the best chances for a practical man doing a business of over $300 a month and constantly increasing. Best facilities in the city. Lease of premises for one and a half years, a low rental. Proprietor going into the hotel business. For particulars address Bixlon and Box 412 Tacoma.

HIS REASONS.—Ex Governor Moody says his reasons for buying the steamer Wasco are that he is administrator of an estate which has a mortgage on the boat for $10,000, and he did not want to see her sacrificed. He has no use for the Wasco as he has no intention of going into the steamboat business.

P WISTAR MORRIS ELECTED

At the Organization of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese Yesterday He Is Chosen Bishop

In answer to a call by the Right Rev B Wistar Morris, bishop of the missionary jurisdiction of Oregon, the primary convention for the organization of a diocese assembled at Trinity church of this city yesterday morning. The litany was said by Rev J N T Goss at 11 o'clock, followed by a celebration of the holy communion. An earnest and effective sermon was preached by the bishop from Rev. xxi 26. The Right Rev Bishop and the Rev Messrs. Cole and Powell were the celebrants.

Lunch was served in the parish building by the Ladies' Guild, of Trinity parish, after which the convention organized for business. The following clerical and lay delegates answered to roll call.

CLERICAL DELEGATES.

Rev C Booth, Newport, Rev J N T Goss, Baker City, Rev Will m Lund, Roseburg, Rev William F Mackwan, Portland, Rev P H Lost, Salem, Rev W E Potwine, Pendleton, Rev W L Powell, Cove, Rev John Sellwood, Milwaukie, Rev J R N Sellwood, East Portland, Rev John W Sellwood, East Portland, Rev William Seymour Short, Astoria, Rev Thomas Sutcliffe, The Dalles, Rev Thomas L Cole, Portland, and Rev J M Donaldson, Oregon City, Rev James Daly, Portland, with Rev Mr Wallace from Honolulu, Sandwich islands, and the Rev Mr Johnson of Vancouver, W T.

LAY DELEGATES.

M R Warrack, Newport, George Brickell, The Dalles, Mr Sellwood, Milwaukie, Professor Letcher, Corvallis, Captain J H West, Hon John Myers, East Portland, Hon A J Wait, St. Matthew, Portland, Dr Glisan, Trinity, Portland, J W Hill, Trinity mission, Portland.

The Rev John W Sellwood was elected secretary and the Rev William L MacEwan was appointed assistant secretary.

UNANIMOUSLY ELECTED

After an address by the bishop, relative to the proper action to be taken in the matter of organizing a diocese, the Rev Mr Powell being called to the chair, the convention proceeded to the election of a bishop. The Rt Rev B Wistar Morris D D, who has been the missionary bishop of the jurisdiction, was unanimously elected, and being introduced by a committee appointed to inform him of the result, thanked the delegates for their action in most appropriate and affecting terms, but said that he could not give an answer to their initiation until after the general convention which meets in October.

After the adoption of the necessary rules of order for their government the convention adjourned to meet at 9 30 this morning.

A service was held at Trinity church at 7 30 last evening, at which the bishop delivered his annual address, which gives a most satisfactory showing of the progress made by the church during the past year.

THAT CHICAGO CANARD

The Reporter, as Predicted, Had an Imaginary Interview With Jack Dempsey

Yesterday's prediction in the local columns of THE OREGONIAN regarding the dispatch from Chicago to the effect that Jack Dempsey and wife were in that city has proved itself to be correct. It was that the reporter writing the item for the Chicago paper had simply faked up an interview with the Nonpareil.

The following is taken from the San Francisco Chronicle of the 9th inst, which arrived in this city yesterday.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Jack Dempsey, in a very quiet way, concluded to come to Chicago. He left it again a few hours later. He was accompanied by his wife, and they were on their way from San Francisco to Buffalo. Said he to a reporter:

"I shall keep away from all my friends in this city. I hate to be making excuses for that little surprise on the coast. But it was as much a surprise to me as it was to all the boys."

"But how did you come to let him do it?"

"Well, it was this way. I could have given him a tap that would have laid him cold at any stage of the game. I feel I had it in me but I was too confident. I wanted to make the fight a good hard one, and then, biff, I got it before I knew it."

The above is but an illustration of the way some of the Eastern sporting writers handle things. Dempsey said to a reporter while in this city a few days since, on being shown a dispatch in a San Francisco paper referring to Sullivan, who it was alleged was on a big spree:

"Why, I don't believe a word of it. John drinks, but is not drunk one tenth of the time the Eastern papers say so. When I was East they had me drunk three or four times a week. If they saw me take a glass of ale with a friend the reporters rushed off and wrote up a sensational article to the effect that I was out painting the town a deep carmine hue. Anything said about a pugilist who is well known is read with interest, and this the reporters know and as long as their articles go they don't worry themselves about digging up facts."

WORK ON THE PORTLAND

The upper floors of the Portland have received the finishing coats of plaster and the walls are as white as the driven snow. Workmen were putting on the hard finish in the dining room yesterday under the supervision of Contractor Donald Mackay. The ceiling is paneled and the panels are finished with mouldings which make a very neat appearance.

The artificial stone sidewalk has been finished on the east front of the hotel with the exception of the driveway into the court yard, and the workmen are getting ready to lay the pavement on the Morrison street side.

The well in the west court is down over fifty feet and is past the stratum of boulders which caused so much trouble. The last tree on the block, the pretty little elm which stood near the northwest corner of the hotel, has been cut down, a victim to the march of progress.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Inspector Rhodes of the Thirteenth Lighthouse District has issued the following notice to mariners:

Notice is hereby given that the second class whistling buoy, painted red and lettered Grays Harbor in white, is reported to have gone adrift from its position one and one quarter miles outside of the bar off entrance to Grays Harbor, W T.

Pilots and masters of vessels, if this buoy is seen by them, are requested to notify me or the lighthouse inspector at San Francisco. The buoy will be replaced as early as practicable.

BETTER FIRE PROTECTION.

A Conference Held Last Night by the Joint Committees

Two New Steam Fire Engines and a Boat Badly Needed—The Matter Informally Talked Over

Last evening Messrs. Farrel, Fleidner and Showers, the committee appointed by the common council to confer with the fire commissioners and a committee from the council of East Portland in regard to providing a fire boat for the protection of the two cities, held a meeting at the mayor's office. Fire Commissioners Story and Trevett and Councilmen Morton and Perry of East Portland were present, and Chief Engineer Morgan and C F Smith.

The proceedings were quite informal, being in the nature of a friendly discussion of the necessity which it is generally admitted exists for better fire protection.

The city has outgrown the fire department and it is the unanimous desire of property holders that two engines with all necessary equipments, should be provided and also a fire-boat.

The fire boat the commissioners have in view is like one built, but is for the city of Chicago, at a cost of $35 000. It is fitted with stand pipes which throw a 4 inch stream or two 2½ inch streams, or can throw fourteen 1¼ inch streams. The expense of running the boat would be about $10 000 a year.

Commissioner Story asked the East Portland councilmen if they could do anything to help in procuring such a boat.

They stated that they would like to do something, but were without means at present. The city was bonded to the full extent allowed by law. The powers of the council were curtailed by the legislature and they could only levy a 1 mill tax for all city purposes.

Mr Farrell said it was not expected that East Portland could do much toward getting the boat, but it was thought it might contribute a share of the expense of maintaining her.

Chief Morgan said East Portland needed a fire boat worse than this city. He thought we needed two engines worse than a fire boat.

In reply to a question Commissioner Story said Commissioner Trevett stated that the board of fire commissioners had held a meeting and talked the matter over. There was no question as to the necessity for increasing the efficiency of the fire department.

The commissioners were of opinion that some property owned by the department, and which is too valuable for fire purposes, could be sold and the money would go a long way toward purchasing the boat and engines required.

The property occupied by No 1 engine company on Morrison street it was thought could be sold for $50 000 and a lot on G street for $4000.

The cost of the boat would probably be $40 000 and two engines with horses and all other requirements would cost $17 000, two lots and houses for the new engines would cost $10 000, and a building for No 1 engine, where the corporation yard now stands, would cost about $4,000, a total of $71 000. Deducting from this the $54 000 the two lots could be sold for would leave a balance of $17 000.

The commissioners were ready to undertake the job of providing the additional facilities if the council approved.

It was agreed that one of the new engines ought to be stationed well down town near Watson's addition and the other in the neighborhood of the Failing school.

Mr Smith said he thought a boat could be built as cheaply here as in Chicago, and if so the amount the city would owe would be lessened considerably.

Mr Farrell said some of the sawmill men had expressed a willingness to contribute toward the cost of a fire boat.

It was stated that the boat could be used to keep the harbor open in winter if necessary.

The council committee said they would place the statement of the commissioners before the council at the next meeting and report what action was taken. Adjourned.

DRESS FABRICS. Regular importations of woolen dress goods are shown in great variety in all the standard shades, as well as many new and charming combinations and modifications. While it can scarcely be said that there are any radically new colors, there are new blendings, the effect of which is novel and altogether satisfactory to ladies of artistic taste. The popularity of embroidered material seems to increase rather than diminish, and the markets are full of the most attractive patterns in this universally favorite form of decoration.

Among the leading styles in pattern dresses are bands about four or five inches wide. These bands are done in embroidery, in colors or in shaded silks, which give great variety to the design, without introducing any striking contrasts. On one edge of these bordered dresses are the wide bands, while on the other are narrow edgings, suitable for waist and sleeve trimming. In plain goods there is endless variety: Cashmere, Henrietta Cloths, Suitings, Serges, Broadcloths, Amazons and Ladies' Cloths. Many ladies will prefer purchasing of these plain materials and trimming with either Persian or Roman Embroidery Bands, which will give the effect of bordered goods and at a much less cost than one of the embroidered pattern dresses. You will see both displayed at our fall opening and can examine into their respective merits at your leisure.

Velvets are to be among the leading fabrics of this season. Whether in black or colors, it seems to matter but little, the decree has gone forth in favor of velvet, and importers are filling their cases with it in prospect. The old-time velvet basque and bodice will be revived, and blouse waists will be indulged in by young ladies of slender figure.

Princesse dresses of velvet will be among the regular orders, and informal reception costumes will be arranged after princesse models.

Plush will follow velvet in popular favor, both for wraps and full costumes. Checked, striped and brocaded velvets and plushes are going to be in good demand and more freely used than in the last two seasons. As to what is "correct style" we would quote the following from "Our Fashion Journal":

"Ladies who would acquire a correct style and cultivate good taste in dress should first of all study the appropriateness of the material to the purpose for which it is required, and whether it be in the item of cost, quality, color or style of making, the general question of adaptability should not for a moment be lost sight of."

Good taste like good manners, may be cultivated, and to do this it is necessary to choose the best models from artists of acknowledged merit and to study them carefully, as well as to note the most approved combinations of colors and material, and their effect upon others with which they may come in contact.

We would remind our friends, as we close this article, that there is going to be a great revival in silks this season, not only in black, but colored silks. Faille Française will take first place of all silk fabrics, closely followed by the Armure and Merveilleux.

Black Dress Goods will hold their own as popular favorites with a large portion of the fashionable world. We shall show them in quite as great a variety of styles and weaves as in colored material.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, SEPT. 12

GREAT ORATORY.

Mr James Hamilton Lewis who is described as a noble scion of the late Confederacy, made an extraordinary address before the democratic convention of Washington. The eloquence of Mr Lewis is of the sort that is always employed by adolescent orators who tear the azure robe of night and the rosy garments of morn in the wild flight of their broken winged imagination to the windy skies of speech. We quote this:

> I read in the organ of the republican party this morning that the democratic party was dead, dead. Never did Lazarus rise from the dead at the call of his master more quickly than does the democratic party rise at the call of the people.

The comparison of the democratic party to Lazarus is a bit of unconscious humor. Lazarus was actually dead, and it required a miracle and the interposition of divine mercy to call him back to life. Orator Lewis confesses by his illustration that the democratic party has been as dead as Lazarus, but declares that its canonized bones at the call of the people are bursting their cerements and coming rapidly to the front in national politics. On the whole perhaps Orator Lewis is right. Lazarus came forth wrapped in his grave clothes, and that is about the present appearance of the democratic party. They have been so long dead and so recently risen from the grave that they have not yet had time to shed their shrouds, and their fellow citizens can hardly tell from looking at them whether they are on the way to the grave or have only just risen from the tomb "at the call of the people," as Mr Lewis puts it. But perhaps the finest flight of Orator Lewis was when he said:

> It was years after the war before you were called to administer that pure, that holy administration which brought such peace to the nation, which rose white and fair, and fell so spotless, and finds no equal, unless in the humble Christian at the feet of his Christ. [Applause.]

Mr Lewis appears to be an humble democratic Christian, in the act of prostrating himself at the feet of Grover Cleveland as abjectly as ever a Hindoo did before his wooden idol. He knows his idol is ugly, but feels that he is great.

A POINT OF WEAKNESS.

One weakness of the late Samuel S Cox was his passion to be thought a man of superior wit and humor. This disposition on his part greatly injured him in popular estimation, for he succeeded in making the world believe that his wit and humor was the largest and best part of him, whereas it was his worst and cheapest side. Cox relished wit and humor, but his own gifts in this direction were in no sense remarkable. He repeated a great many historical "good things," uttered by Sheridan, Sydney Smith, Voltaire, Heine, George Canning, Barham, Lamb, Hood, Byron, Moore, Theodore Hook and many others, but his own wit and humor were neither original nor brilliant, like that of Randolph, Corwin, Choate, John Van Buren and Ingersoll. It was not up to the level of the average "funny man" of the metropolitan newspaper. Cox was "well up" in the literature of jest and humor. He was a dexterous appropriator and assimilator of historical wit and humor, and not seldom removed the foreign trade marks and palmed off his importations upon the public as goods of American manufacture. In fact Mr Cox had a puerile ambition to be thought an excruciatingly funny fellow and in consequence of this stupid ambition his reputation, as a man of solid talents for debate and legislation and large political information, has greatly suffered with the public. Many a sound and brilliant speech Cox has robbed of its effectiveness by his irrepressible desire to be esteemed a funny rather than a forcible speaker. Butler's famous gibe "Shoo fly, don't bodder me," was effective in extinguishing Cox for the time, because it hit off Cox's vain ambition to vanquish Butler by making fun of him, but Butler, having really more original wit than Cox, shot him to death with a phrase of mockery and contempt. Butler knew his man. He didn't waste any fine work upon him, he knew he was dealing with a vain, thin-skinned person who would be sure to lose his temper, if the laugh was turned upon him, so Butler answered Cox's raillery by breaking a stale egg on his forehead. The audience laughed, Cox in his rage forgot how to be witty, and the grim Butler, smiling as cynically as Mephistophiles, retired with all the honors of the field.

ONE-SIDED "RACE WARS"

Race wars, so called, between blacks and whites, seem to be increasing at the South. In the early summer an armed force of whites raided Lafayette, La, forced a negro justice of the peace and a constable to resign and soon afterwards attacked the jail, captured a negro prisoner and hung him in broad daylight. The sheriff dared not arrest the ringleaders, so Governor Nicholls called out the militia and arrested eighteen prominent citizens of Lafayette. In Mississippi recently a white mob attacked a colored excursion train at Gouldsboro depot and burned a colored church. A race riot occurred in this same county last spring. The New Orleans Times Democrat comments as follows:

> The subsequent act of vandalism in burning the negro church close to the scene of the disturbance was a wanton atrocity in keeping with the similar crime of incendiarism which occurred in the Gretna riot a few months ago.
>
> Whatever may be said of the indiscriminate firing near the Texas Pacific railroad, not a word can be uttered in palliation of this last grave offense. It was deliberate crime, and the men who committed it are a disgrace to their state and their race.
>
> This whole affair should be submitted to the most rigid investigation by the local and state authorities, and those who can be pointed out and found responsible for it should be punished to the very extremity of the law.

Bibb county, Ala., is also threatened with a race war. Governor Lowry of Mississippi, was energetic in his efforts to punish Sullivan but he never arrests any ruffian whites for shooting negroes, although he is prompt to order out the militia to punish negroes who "shoot back."

In these so-called race wars at the South the whites are more ferocious and brutal than the blacks. It is seldom that whites are killed, while blacks are constantly killed in large numbers.

A FOOLISH REFUSAL.

The action of the son of the late General John A Logan, in refusing to forward his father's picture for the use of the Murat Halstead Club, will not command the approval of the country. The political club, which bears Halstead's name, includes undoubtedly a great many men who are sincere admirers of General Logan as a pure patriot and gallant soldier. The criticisms of Mr Halstead were legitimate, for they were not directed at General Logan's private character, but at his public action in the senate. General Logan was not without his infirmities of temper and judgment and his action in refusing to vote for an investigation into the charges that Senator Payne's election had been procured by corruption was one which public sentiment in his party did not at all approve. The charges of corruption were preferred by a large number of upright and intelligent democrats including ex Senator Thurman, and were worthy of attention. The majority of the leading republican journals criticised the action of General Logan, not as caustically, to be sure, as did Mr. Halstead, but nevertheless with considerable sharpness. The right of a public journal to criticise the public action of either house of congress is beyond question. It is not only a right but a duty, and Mr Halstead did not exceed the bounds of justice or propriety when he denounced the action of Logan, Evarts, Teller and other members of the senate who refused to investigate Payne. A senator is not a king who can do no wrong, he is a public servant open to public criticism. Mr Halstead may have been in error, or he may have written with too much warmth of feeling but he did nothing to justify so puerile an act as the refusal of General Logan's picture to a large political club bearing his name. If Mr Halstead had asked for Logan's picture as a private gift, Mrs Logan and her son might justify their refusal but to refuse it as a public gift to ornament the rooms of a large political club who are not responsible for Mr Halstead's views, was excusable in an impulsive resentful woman but not in a man of intelligence and common sense.

LIGHT DAY IN THE COURTS

A Watch Thief Held to Answer—Domestic Troubles—One Divorce Asked and Several Granted

Minnie E Conroy began proceedings for a divorce in the circuit court, yesterday afternoon against George Conroy, to whom she was married on the 5th of January 1884. The ground upon which the complaint is based is desertion. In addition to the decree the plaintiff asks that she be allowed to resume her maiden name of Addy.

DOMESTIC INFELICITY.

Mrs Anna E Stein, a buxom colored woman appeared in the police court yesterday afternoon with her daughter Eliza Thompson for the purpose of swearing out a charge of assault and battery against her husband, William Stein, an old German about twenty years her senior. She accused her husband of striking Eliza who is her daughter by a former husband. "This is not the first time he has done it," said she "and I have a powerful good notion to pack up my traps and leave him. That is just what I am going to do." The injured girl mounted the rostrum to allow Judge Tanner to examine her face, which she claimed was discolored.

Stein pleaded guilty and was about to commence a long winded German oration, when the court broke the spell by imposing a fine of $10. Stein appeared to have an injured air and evidently thought that he had provocation for striking his own child or rather stepdaughter.

POLICE COURT CULLINGS.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the following offenders appeared before Judge Tanner to repent of their misdoings.

Charles Lewis and E. Williams, two excessive imbibers of red liquor were given five and ten days in the city jail respectively. Ed Brown and Charles Lumgardner, charged with being drunk were fined $5 each, the latter also forfeited $10 bail on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Tom Collins, an innocent trespasser was fined $10, the minimum penalty under the statutes.

John and William Murphy, two brothers, arrested for roaming the streets after 12 o'clock mid night, were discharged, and their bail of $10 in each case was ordered returned to them. It appeared that they had business on the streets at the time.

ARRAIGNMENTS OF CRIMINALS.

The following indicted persons were arraigned before Judge Stearns yesterday morning and allowed until Saturday to plead: James T Berry, for having married Mary J Flanhagan in this city, on the 3d of August 1888 while he had a wife Lizzie Van Horn living in Breckenridge county, Colorado. James McGuire, burglary, who feloniously entered the house of Laura Maxwell, on August 1.

DIED INTESTATE.

A. G Cunningham who died in East Portland on the 18th day of August last died intestate, and C A Dolph has been appointed administrator of his estate, which is valued at $7 000.

BLOTTER GLEANINGS.

A WATCH THIEF HELD TO ANSWER.

Charles Preston waived examination on a charge of stealing an $80 gold watch and a $20 chain belonging to A W Holcomb. He excused the theft on the plea of drunkenness, and was prepared to take his medicine. The court held him to appear before the grand jury under bonds in the sum of $500.

THE IMMIGRATION BOARD.

Proceedings of the Regular Weekly Meeting Held Last Night.

The regular weekly meeting of the Oregon Immigration Board was held last night. Present: Charles H Dodd president, Charles E Sitton vice president, T F Osborne, Ellis G Hughes, D P Sherman and Secretary W R Struble.

The minutes of the three previous meetings were read and approved.

Professor J P Looney who has just returned from a visit to Europe and the Paris exposition, was present and gave the board an interesting account of his trip. He says he found everywhere a great anxiety on the part of the people to learn of this country and thought with the proper effort many excellent persons could be induced to emigrate to Oregon. He distributed his stock of Oregon literature judiciously but could have used much more to good advantage.

The proposition of F F Kane to insert 40-inch advertisement in the Seattle Post Intelligencer for one year every other day for $2.00 was discussed, and on motion of Mr Sherman the board voted to appropriate $40 per month for six months for one-half the space offered, Mr Kane to secure the balance necessary by individual solicitation.

The proposition of the Western Reporter to distribute 4000 copies for $40 was declined.

The Pacific Rural Press proposition to insert page advertisement in their forthcoming national grange edition was declined.

On motion of Mr Osborne 7000 bird's eye views of Portland were ordered given to the San Francisco Farm and Home, to be folded in their forthcoming Oregon edition.

The proposition of the Time Schedule Company for advertising, was declined.

The same action was had upon the proposition of the American Emigrant Co, New York, relative to advertising in their almanac for 1890.

A long letter was read by the secretary from Mr I C Kauffman, giving an account of the board's exhibit at the Pennsylvania grangers' picnic, which was placed on file. Mr Kauffman says the display was a grand success and was the center of attraction.

A vote of thanks was ordered tendered to J Zeamer, esq, editor American Volunteer, Carlisle, Pa, for services rendered the Oregon representatives at the grangers' picnic.

The bills of the American Breeder $5.00, and D B Newcombe, $1 10 were ordered paid.

The details of arranging the board's display at the industrial fair was on motion referred to President Dodd. Adjourned.

A STREET CAR RUNAWAY.

PORTLAND, Sept 11 1889.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

This evening, about 5:30 as I was riding on the horse car on G street coming toward Thirteenth street, the horse ran away, throwing the boy driver as the car jumped the track. The car ran on the track again and a policeman tried in vain to stop the animal. He said afterwards if he had had his revolver he would have shot the horse. I would have jumped myself only the danger to life and property and the appeals of a lady the only passenger carrying a baby in her arms except myself. I applied the brake and only succeeded in stopping the car just above the turn on Thirteenth street. This ought to be a warning to the street car company to employ men not boys for drivers.

MASSACHUSETTS WOMEN.

Their Attitude Regarding the Equal Suffrage Movement.

An Answer to the Communication of Katharine S Mason, Which, It Is Claimed, Conveyed an Erroneous Impression.

PORTLAND, Sept 10.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In the interests of fair play, I feel sure you will allow one who at the time probably referred to by Katharine S Mason in her communication, "The Female Suffrage Clause," in THE OREGONIAN of the 9th—that is, the winters of 1883-84—was a resident of Boston, a woman voter, and an earnest participant in the suffrage movement to slightly correct statements which possibly from the writer's lack of definite knowledge on the subject convey to the women of this coast an entirely erroneous impression as to the attitude of their Massachusetts sisters regarding political franchise.

There had been no session of the Massachusetts legislature for years previous to the time referred to when the suffragists had failed to appeal to it for just legislation on the question of equal political privileges regardless of sex. There was no particularly favorable make up of the legislative body that session and no special favorable action looked for from it, but the movement in favor of woman suffrage [illegible] to be one so strong among thinking people [illegible] the petitions in favor of it so largely signed by influential persons that it was [illegible] necessary by those opposed to offset it by something [illegible] to the timid and [illegible] thinking would seem to carry names equally powerful against it, and among the most active workers in this remonstrance movement were Mrs Cannett [illegible] who was herself once a [illegible] worker in woman suffrage (as her brother Rev W [illegible] Cannett still is) and William H Say[illegible] [illegible].

There was never any storm of [illegible] in the suffragists present at any [illegible] by legislators or remonstrant opposers [illegible] only once or twice one or two [illegible] from the [illegible] women quickly frowned upon by the majority of listening suffragists when words were used by the speaker in [illegible] to womanhood in general. At [illegible] I think [illegible] remonstrants' petition [illegible] into the "thousands" as stated by your correspondent. I have before me a clipping from the Boston Transcript of [illegible] 1882 which states that "sixty six ladies of Boston had recently sent to the state legislature a remonstrance against having the franchise thrust upon them. In reply to certain newspapers which [illegible] sympathy with the inferred large majority of women who do not desire the ballot," the Transcript writer says:

Aside from the fact that the right to vote does not involve legal obligation to vote, and there is no consequent thrusting of the ballot upon either man or woman it may well be doubted whether the indifference of women to the franchise is so great as the [illegible] would like to make it appear. Already though our present legislature has been in session but a few weeks there have been presented eighty three petitions for woman suffrage bearing the names of 4100 petitioners. Several hearings have been given by the state committee on suffrage to a number of different delegations of those interested in gaining that right. One large suffrage convention has been held within a few weeks in this city and another is to be held within a week while most of the leading papers are vigorously discussing the pros and cons of the question. This certainly does not look very much like universal indifference on the part of men or women. Per contra, we have the indifference of the legislators to overcome and sixty six lady remonstrants against many thousands of petitioners for suffrage of which the 4100 already sent to the legislature is but a part.

This was in 1882 and since that time the movement in Massachusetts has steadily increased in strength.

I do not know how those first sixty six names were procured to the remonstrant petition but I do know how some names were signed to a later one circulated in W H Sayward's own ward in Boston since I was one of four suffragists in one house in that ward who came very near signing it through the smooth tongued representation of the young man who brought it to us that it was a petition for instead of against suffrage. Called from avocations at an hour when all were busy, we were about to take his word and sign without reading, when one more cautious than the rest insisted upon reading it thus discovering his misrepresentation. We made at that time a public protest against such methods, as did several others who had been beguiled into signing their names to a petition to which they were opposed.

It is not fair to the women of Massachusetts to represent that the majority of the most cultivated and intelligent women from all over the state are opposed to woman's suffrage, when that is the very class who have most earnestly demanded and worked for it in the past and to day. Among these Massachusetts suffragists we can recall at random such world known women as Margaret Fuller, Lydia Maria Child, Angelina Grimke Weld, Louisa Alcott, Mrs. Caroline H Dall, Mrs Lucy Stone, Clara Barton, Julia Ward Howe, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Professor Maria Mitchell, Anne Whitney, Abby Morton Diaz and Mary A Livermore, to say nothing of hundreds of more than local celebrity, nor are cultivated and intelligent Massachusetts men less pronounced in their advocacy of equal rights in politics as in everything else for their mothers, sisters, daughters and wives. [illegible] champions as Ralph Waldo Emerson, William Lloyd Garrison—both senior and junior—Wendell Phillips, Theodore Parker, Samuel B Bowles, John G Whittier, Charles Sumner, Senator Hoar, Judge Samuel [illegible], Judge Pitman and a long list of distinguished men including the present Governor Ames, and a half dozen of his predecessors of whom Gen B F Butler was one, have unhesitatingly given their adherence to the cause.

Outside of the Massachusetts question if I may here add a reply to one of the many fallacies involved in Katharine S Mason's short article where she says "a majority of the women of Washington territory do not desire the right of suffrage." I will do so by the following quotation from Herbert Spencer's "Social Statics":

The strangest peculiarity exhibited by those deficient in sense of right—or rather that which looks the strangest to us—is their inability to recognize their own claims. We are told for instance by Lieutenant Barnard that in the Portuguese settlements on the African coast, the free negroes are insulted by the slaves as having no white man to look after them, and see them righted when oppressed, and it is said that in America the slaves themselves look down upon the free blacks and call them rubbish which anomalous looking fact is far however easily conceivable when we remember that here in England in this nineteenth century most women defend that state of servitude in which they are held by men.

VILLARD'S PET SCHEME

What Is Thought of the Proposed Increase of Capitalization

New York special to Chicago Herald. Much interest is manifested here in what is believed to be the Northern Pacific Railway Company's peril. It is claimed that while its capitalization is to be increased $70 000 000 under Mr Villard's scheme, but comparatively small additions will be made to its property. Mr Villard proposes that the present general first mortgage bonds shall be redeemed by [illegible], for them 117 per cent. of the proposed new consolidated bonds bearing 4 per cent interest, the seconds by the issue of 115 per cent. of the new bonds bearing 4½ per cent. interest, the thirds by the issue of 105 per cent of the new bonds bearing 5 per cent interest, and the branch line bonds by giving in place of them 107 per cent. of new bonds bearing 5 per cent interest. This will increase the bonded debt of the concern from about $105 000 000 to $160 000 000 and according to Mr Villard will reduce the fixed charges by about $ 000 000. In a word the proposition is to increase the bonded indebtedness of the company $17 000 000 to save $ 000 000 in charges. But it is by no means certain that such reductions as Mr Villard figures can be effected and it is more likely that he will not stop until the $160 000 000 of bonds are issued as he will no doubt have a control when the election takes place next month.

Everyone sees now it is claimed that Mr Villard proposes to make good all of the Oregon & Transcontinental stock he bought for election purposes by turning it in to that company at something better than cost for Northern Pacific stocks at a good deal under the market. His next step is to make his Northern Pacific stocks good by putting a part of them into the company for its bonds. The rest he would doubtless undertake to work off by figuring a dividend or two on the books of the company. The result of this whole sale shifting of millions of securities will be to leave the Northern Pacific railroad company with $160 000 000 of bonded debt in place of about $105 000 000 as at present and for the added $ 7 000 000 the company will be very lucky if it receives $1 000 000 in new property or improvement up to its present [illegible]. The rest will go for premium on the present bonds and to the preferred stock. The stock will stand at $100 000 000 all of one class and considering that the company will have to earn 5 per cent, or $8 000 000 upon the $160 000 000 of bonds and pay other charges such as rentals and car trust obligations before anything is paid on that stock it will be after Mr Villard's dividend bookkeeping has ceased about as valuable as anything is. [illegible] only possibly less valuable as collateral. No marks of genius are discernible in the proposed transactions. The only extraordinary [illegible] is their [illegible] iniquity.

As to the Oregon & Transcontinental Company Mr Villard is also already shown his hand. He appears that he does not propose to liquidate it but will retain its capital—probably about $ 000 000, since about $40 000 000 of the stock is to be received in payment of the most valuable assets of the company—to use it as a vehicle for reconstructing the Northern Pacific obligations. It would manifestly be impolitic for Mr Villard to handle the securities himself, but as principal owner of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company, he will secure the bulk of the so called bankers' commissions. In the old days Mr Villard used to pay the bankers almost fabulous commissions. They knew his straits and the modest value he placed upon other people's money, so they exacted all they could from him. Thinly concealed back of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company, he will collect the commissions himself this trip. The whole business is characterized as wanton. The only necessity it is claimed, so far as the Northern Pacific is concerned, is to raise not more than $15 000 000. By the expenditure of that sum during the next few years, and the exercise of a little more patience on the part of its preferred stockholders, it would in all probability fulfill the promise it now contains of becoming one of the most substantial railroad property in the country. But it seems to be fated that as it is recovering from the adversity of 1883 the hand that throttled it then is again laid upon its throat.

Grave suspicion has been aroused on the part of those stockholders who are not parties to the inside deals of the Oregon & Transcontinental, and there is talk of judicial liquidation. It is believed that a judicial winding up of the Oregon & Transcontinental company would reveal many transactions of more than passing interest, for it has been hinted that its resources and credit have been used if not exhausted in Mr Villard's efforts to secure three-fourths of the Northern Pacific preferred stock, the proportion that is necessary to authorize the $160,000 000 mortgage and to secure to him an uninterrupted seance with its finances.

CABLE NOTES.

The London Strike

LONDON, Sept 11—Several more wharfingers have conceded the demand of the strikers. Nearly a thousand men resumed work this morning. The strikers are resolute. Their pickets display greater activity and prevent new men from proceeding to the docks.

LONDON, Sept 11—There is a pause in the strike negotiations. Cardinal Manning has postponed his interview with the directors of the dock companies until to morrow. Burns is ill from over work, and is taking a day's rest.

The Antwerp Disaster.

ANTWERP, Sept 11—The official inquiry into the explosion and conflagration is progressing secretly. It is officially denied that the cartridges that exploded in the factory contained dynamite. It is believed the explosion occurred in the factory before the petroleum reservoirs caught fire.

The Bimetallic Congress.

PARIS, Sept 11.—The bimetallic congress was opened in Trocadero to-day, Senator Maguire presided. There are 170 members present, including twenty three representatives of European and other governments. Maguire made the opening address.

Death of a Member of the Commons.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Hon Wm John Wentworth, Fitzhugh Williams member of the commons for Peterborough, is dead. In politics he was an independent liberal and unionist.

Boulanger Shut Out.

PARIS, Sept 11—The prefect of the Seine has refused to accept the declaration of candidacy for a member of the chamber of deputies from Boulanger and Rochefort.

A Bank Director Commits Suicide.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept 11.—Van Hass, a director of the Ottoman Bank, committed suicide. His death has no connection with the affairs of the bank.

Sanford's Ginger

The distress arising from over feeding is speedily overcome by a teaspoonful of SANFORD'S GINGER after a hearty meal.

Dyspepsia, flatulency, rising of food, cramps, indigestion, sick headache, nausea, and many ills may be prevented by a timely dose.

SANFORD'S GINGER is a delicious combination of imported ginger, choice aromatics, and medicinal French brandy and is the finest ginger ever compounded in the history of medicine.

As a pure fruit stimulant for the aged, mentally and physically overworked, for delicate females, especially mothers, and as a means of eradicating a craving for intoxicants it is invaluable.

Never travel without SANFORD'S GINGER.

Beware of cheap, worthless and often dangerous gingers which are urged as substitutes. Ask for

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The stock market was quiet and irregular during the forenoon to-day, but became more active and positively strong later in the day. The news was of a negative character, and the disposition was to wait the result of the St. Paul meeting. The circumstance of some of the larger operators being upon the bull side later put new life into the speculations, and the market finally closed active and strong at the best prices of the day.

Government bonds have been dull and steady.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REVIEW

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—The merchants from the interior have begun to lay in their fall and winter supplies which has caused a good movement in merchandise.

Money continues in steady demand and firm. Cereals rule dull and uninteresting. Wheat has again gone down during the week, but the decline is merely fractional

Hops continue lifeless and nominal with conflicting reports from the New York crop. Here nobody wants to talk hops and trade is therefore at a standstill and quotations are accordingly nominal as possible

Wool continues to pick up day by day. The feeling grows steadily firmer and the demand is noticeably larger than a week ago. Prices are as yet unchanged however. The dealers say that the buyers have been losing their best for several weeks to break the market but have not succeeded.

Dried fruit is in fair demand and steady. Some dealers say that 75 per cent of this year's crop of dried fruit has already been sold. If this proves correct it is unprecedented

Butter is dull as the advance has diverted consumption to Eastern butter which is in excessive and continually increasing supply. Fancy butter however scarce and higher

Choice eggs, both Eastern and California, are in light supply and higher.

The canned salmon market has again weakened and some holders are making concessions in order to sell, while the heavy buyers are holding off.

AFTER TWENTY SIX YEARS.

A Needle Successfully Extracted From a Woman's Heart

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Jane Atherton who is the author of many descriptive stories in magazines and weeklies, was recently admitted to St. Luke's hospital as a patient. While at the hospital an abscess formed in her left lung. An incision was made, and the microscope showed protruding from the wall of one of the arteries of the heart the eye of a needle. It was plainly the cause of the aneurism. The needle was caught with a small forceps and after much difficulty was gently withdrawn. The little hole in the artery was immediately closed by coagulated blood and the hemorrhage was trifling. The wound in the chest was closed and bandaged. Within twenty four hours the heart [illegible] and the respiration was [illegible]. She is now almost well and there is nothing, now to prevent her perfect recovery

The needle was swallowed by Miss Atherton twenty six years ago [illegible] ten years old, and it was supposed that it had passed from her body long ago

A MURDERER SURRENDERS

He Tells an Unlikely Story of an Attack Upon Himself

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Early this morning a party of hunters encamped six miles north of Santa Monica were visited at the [illegible] camp of a Mexican about 45 years old covered from head to foot with blood. It was learned that the Mexican had had a fight on the beach some time during the previous night with two fellow countrymen who had, the stranger asserted, tried to rob him

The man gave the name of Juan Jose Fuin, and said that he wanted to go to Santa Monica to give himself up. He was taken into town by the hunters and upon the officers going out to the scene of the reported fight they found lying on the beach the dead body of Luis Martinez, with his head crushed in seemingly by a rock. There were several knife wounds on the body and the blood was so clotted upon his face that identification was impossible until it had been washed off

A crowd of Mexicans were found grouped about the corpse, these being relatives of Martinez.

An Earthquake in Pennsylvania.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 10.—The people of this city to-night are considerably agitated by a sharp shock of earthquake which occurred at 9 15 o'clock. Buildings here and in Ashley Kingston, Pittston and surrounding towns trembled for several seconds vigorously enough to rattle glass ware and crockery, and in some cases to throw them on the floor. As far as learned no persons were injured.

At about the time the shock was felt here an extensive cave-in took place at Plymouth, three miles from here.

At 11 30 this evening it was reported from there that five acres or more of Delaware and Hudson mine surface had gone down. There was no one at work at the time.

A Sentence Commuted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The secretary of the navy to-day acted upon the findings of the court martial in the case of Commander Harrington, charged with stranding the practice ship Constellation, near Cape Hatteras June 15 last. The court found him guilty, and sentenced him to suspension from duty for two years, on waiting orders pay but united in a unanimous recommendation to clemency, in view of the high character and distinguished professional services of the accused. Because of this recommendation, Secretary Tracy, after approving the findings, added a commutation of sentence to one year's suspension, to date from July 3.

Denouncing the Anti Chinese Laws

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Alfred H. Love, of Philadelphia, president of the universal peace union of America, sent to-day to the Chinese minister at Washington a copy of a resolution passed by the peace union in its convention, denouncing the anti Chinese laws and calling on all true Americans to demand their repeal. The resolution was enclosed in a letter expressing the hope that the Chinese government will not retaliate as the obnoxious laws probably will not last long. The resolution has also been sent to Prince Chun, the prime minister of China at Pekin

Brutally Murdered by "Regulators."

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10.—The Picayune's, Lafayette, La., special says. A brutal murder was committed a few miles from this place on the Abbeville road last night. Near the roadside stood a small cabin, and in this lay the mutilated bodies of Rosemond Cormier and his daughter Rosalia, aged 15. They had been murdered by a band of "regulators," who about two months ago, whipped Cormier and ordered him to leave. His failure to do so resulted in the death of himself and daughter last night.

GOOD SPORT AT CITY VIEW

Sunday and Tom Daly Win the Runs and Altena and Palatina the Trots.

The Montana Sports Thought the Oregon Mare Could Not Trot, but She Fooled Them —A Dead Heat Claimed.

A good lively day's sport was had by all who attended the races at City View Park yesterday. The races were called at the appointed time, the horses were sent away without delay, and above all the contests were spirited and everybody was pleased. The association was determined to put a stop to delays and instructed the judges to fine riders and drivers if they caused unnecessary waits at the post. No cause was given for the imposition of a fine. Everybody was on time, things went off like clockwork, the day's sport was over at 6, and an hour later the people were landed in the city satisfied.

The crowd was larger than that of the first day, numbering about 1500, a good percentage of whom were ladies. Private conveyances were strung all along the fences. Among those noticed in the grand stand and in the field were General John Gibbon, Major Sumner, A. D. Charlton, Hal Green, Mayor DeLashmutt, Councilman C. M. Forbes, E. S. Rothchild, S. A. Gunst, Harry Hogue, Julius Lowenberg and family, John P. Howe and wife, Miss Padelford, E. B. Williams, Tol [illegible], Commissioner B. P. Cardwell, State Fish Commissioner J. [illegible] Reed, Mrs. H. D. Green, Mrs. C. J. [illegible], State Senator P. H. [illegible] of Washington county, Richard Everding, Harry Bell, Geo. F. Watkins, T. N. Dunbar, A. Davis, Hon. Richard Williams, Joseph Woolman, Colonel Connihe, [illegible], D. Olphant, C. P. Bacon, A. E. [illegible], John Lewis, Councilman W. A. Scoggin, Sam [illegible], William Harris, H. F. Badin, [illegible], W. W. Spaulding, W. L. King, A. [illegible], Colonel Bradshaw of [illegible], W. [illegible], B. Willey, W. T. Hume, N. T. Collett, Elijah Corbett.

THE TRACK WAS FAST

It was a superb day for racing, being clear and cool and bright. The track was in fine condition. It was still two seconds slower than on the opening day. The judges were Judge Buchtel, Captain George Flanders and C. G. Richmond; timers, L. F. Cahill, W. F. Matlock and W. C. Nesmith.

Betting was very lively. Great crowds stood around the pool booth all day, and when they had favorites they backed them regardless of consequences. The Paris Mutuals were well patronized and they paid better than they have since the system was introduced on the track. There was paid on Altena in the first heat, $75, and on Tom Daly, the winner of the long dash, $114.

The Montana visitors won back part of the money they lost on Sunday, the first day, by backing the same horse in the half mile dash, but they lost it again by putting it up on Edward C. to win the big trot.

Promptly at 12:30 Judge Buchtel called out the horses to complete the 2:30 trot, one heat of which was trotted the previous night. B. S. did not respond. He was so lame that he could not leave the stable and was withdrawn. Kitty Ham was out before the judges limping and was also withdrawn. Her owner, Senator Longue, said her lameness would prevent her taking part in any more races this season.

Alta too had a lame hind foot, but he continued to be the favorite. He looked well, and his backers thought inasmuch as he had won a heat with a lame leg Tuesday night he would improve when warmed up.

ALTENA SURPRISES THE BOYS.

The race was a pretty one. After half a dozen scores in the first heat the flag dropped to a good start, in which Alta showed first, Altena and Pricemont close up. Altena went to the front at the first turn, Alta next, Lady Maud third, and showed the way to the first quarter, where Alta resumed command and held it to the half mile post, Lady Maud and Altena alternating in second and third positions. Alta was too lame to win, and after rounding the half gave way to Altena, who won hands down three lengths before Lady Maud second, Pricemont third. After losing the lead, Alta broke and fell back and finished fourth, Susie S. last.

Alta promptly dropped out of sight in the betting and Altena became favorite. She led from the start in the next two heats and won the race easily. Lady Maud trotted in poor form and was frequently off her feet.

Altena is now the property of Mayor DeLashmutt, and so is Stemwinder. The mayor paid McDonald & Swan, of Yreka, $5000 for the span. Both were sired by Altamont. Altena's record is 2:28, and she made it in the first heat of yesterday's trot. Stemwinder is a five year old and has no record.

At the conclusion of the trot Judge Buchtel complimented the drivers for their excellent driving, particularly in settling their horses when they showed a disposition to break.

A GOOD TIP ON SUNDAY

Great interest was manifested in the half mile dash and repeat, which was next on the boards. The tip was out on Sunday to win. He sold the favorite by four to three against the field. Sleepy Dick drew the pole, Sunday second, Bogus third, Yellow Rose fourth, Daisy A. fifth.

Frazier gave them the flag at the first break and away they scampered from the half post. Sleepy Dick jumped off in front and opening a gap of a length showed the way for an eighth of a mile, Sunday second, Yellow Rose third. Bally held back in the rear with Sunday until they swept into the homestretch with a fearful rush. Then he made his run and collaring Sleepy Dick beat him out in a drive by nearly a length, Yellow Rose third a neck behind Sleepy Dick, Bogus fourth, Daisy A. fifth.

Cooper held Sleepy Dick in altogether too much in the rush for the wire, and the judges, being of that opinion, substituted Myers for him. Many bettors construed the change to mean that Sleepy Dick was held back to lose and that his new pilot would ride him to win, and so they invaded the pool box and backed up their opinions. Sunday opened favorite at $20 to $17, but the money that Sleepy Dick's supporters had made the figures look something like this: Sleepy Dick $60, Sunday $20, field $4. How Jack Dowd and the rest of the Montana delegation chuckled at the sight of so much money soon to be theirs.

SLEEPY DICK COULDN'T WIN

Sleepy Dick limped a little as he sauntered up the track to the post, still the confidence of his backers was unshaken. Bogus was first away when the word was given for the repeat and scooting ahead showed ten feet of clear space before 200 yards had been gone. Sunday second, Sleepy Dick third. Myers pushed the sleepy horse up to the flanks of the leaders at the five-eighths post and tried to gain the front, but Bogus and Sunday headed him. He finally got Sleepy Dick in the van and rushed into the straight a length before Bogus, Sunday third. Bogus was not able to respond with the speed that the application of the whips called for and dropped second place to Sunday.

It was fight and drive all the way to the wire between Sunday and Sleepy Dick, and the horses were so nearly aligned that no one could tell which was in front. Two hundred feet from the wire Bally began pulling on Sunday with all his might. The little gelding swerved almost to the fence and ran with his mouth wide open like a trotting horse fighting the bit. The two horses passed under the string side by side, Sunday half a neck in front, Bogus third, Daisy A. fourth, Yellow Rose fifth.

THE DARK HORSE WINS.

The next race, a mile and a sixteenth dash, was a pretty race. It was also a surprise party. None but the most sanguine thought for a moment that Tom Daly, the winner, was in the race. He sold in the field, Jack Brady being second choice, Jubilee second and Black Pilot third.

Jubilee showed temper and with Bingo contributed much toward delaying the start. Jack Brady had the pole, Oregon Rose second place, Little Phil third, Black Pilot fourth, Jubilee fifth, Bingo sixth and Daly seventh. The delay ended in the flag being given to a superb start, from which Daly jumped away first, Bingo at his heels, Black Pilot third, the others bunched.

When they swept past the grand stand their positions were unchanged, but at the turn Oregon Rose went to the head of the string, Daly second and Jubilee third. Oregon Rose showed the way to the head of the straight, into which he turned a length ahead of Jubilee, Daly third.

Then the race became exciting. Oregon Rose could not stand the pushing and fell back and gave the other horses, all of which were bunched except Bingo, who was on the end, a chance to fight for first place. And it was a fight, too. A cloud of dust filled the air and the horses shot past the grand stand amid the cheers of the spectators. From the timers' and reporters' stand the cry went up "Tom Daly wins," and the answer came from the grand stand, "Black Pilot wins." Still others claimed it was a dead heat.

ALMOST A DEAD HEAT

It was so close that it was hard to tell who won. Hazlett, who rode Black Pilot, claimed that the race was his by a head. R. E. Bybee, the well known horseman, who sat in the grand stand in line with the wire, thought Black Pilot had the race by half a neck. A dozen men saw it the same way. In the timers' stand a different opinion prevailed. A majority of the persons in the stand thought it was Daly's race. Timer Nesmith was of the opinion that it was a dead heat.

After considering the subject for a long time the judges gave Tom Daly the race, Black Pilot second, Little Phil third. "Black Pilot was in front ten feet from the wire," said Judge Buchtel, "but at the last jump McCaugh let go Daly's head and it's not an inch in front of Black Pilot. The horses had been running very close and Rider McCaugh's move won the race."

MAYOR DELASHMUTT'S MARE WINS.

Palatina, Mayor DeLashmutt's fleet spotted trotter, was the winner of the 2:22 class. She divided the honors with Edwin C. in the pools. Before the first heat they sold on even terms, $60 to $20 against $12 for Contractor and $14 for Little Joe. Edwin C. was the favorite with the Montana visitors. He has a record of 2:21½, which explains their confidence in him.

Palatina was in fine form and in the last heat tied the best time for a mile ever made on the track. With the exception of a bobble every time she rounded the first turn her gait was steady. Whenever she bobbled Lewis promptly steadied her.

In the first heat it looked as if the spotted mare was not in the race at all. She was the last away from the post, Little Joe leading, Edwin C. second, Contractor third. It was in this order that they trotted to the three-quarter pole. Palatina was at the tail end of the procession at the half mile post and did not begin to trot until she neared the [illegible] straight [illegible] lengths [illegible] Contractor [illegible] Coming [illegible] captured the first heat [illegible] Little Joe to [illegible] by a neck. Contractor third.

Palatina's performance filled Mayor DeLashmutt with delight. "Didn't she trot that last half fast?" he said over and over again.

Palatina, having one feather in her cap, proceeded to add two more in good style. In the second heat Edwin C. led her to the head of the straight, where she went to the front and beat him by a length. Little Joe third. In the third heat she passed the Montana horse at the five-eighths post and beat Contractor, who had also headed Edwin C. to the wire by a length.

THE WORK GOES BRAVELY ON.

The New Cable Road Will Be Completed by January 1, 1890—Cause of the Delay.

Owing to the fact that some of the men employed on the cable road were laid off temporarily because the material could not be procured to proceed with, a report was started that the work had been stopped. There was no foundation for this report, as at no time have operations been suspended, and the public can rest assured that the Portland Cable Railway Company is still on deck and proposes to proceed energetically with the construction of the line and expects to have it completed so that our citizens can ride from G street to the Heights by New Year's day.

A force of twenty men or more are now at work on the trestle and will have the road completed to the bottom of it by the middle of next week. The company intends to have material on the ground before it puts on a large force, as it has learned from experience that the promises of iron men are a little uncertain. It is expected that the material will be here in a short time, and Mr. G. W. Lynch, general manager, says that he expects to put on from 200 to 300 men next week, if they can be had, and the road from the trestle to the terminus will be pushed to completion as fast as men and money can do it, and if the weather permits it will be completed by New Year's.

The suspension of work on the power house was due to the action by the original plans it was to have been set back 100 feet, which it was found would have placed it against a high bank, where dirt and rock would have been liable to cave down upon it. The plans have been modified so as to make the building longer and not so deep, and thus avoid the trouble apprehended.

Work will be started on the building within a week, and it will be completed by the time the road is.

A PLEASANT SERENADE

The Marine Band Treats "The Oregonian" Force to Several Selections of Excellent Music.

At 10:45 o'clock last night the Marine band of twenty two pieces, which had just returned from Vancouver, where it had furnished the music for the opening of the republican campaign in Washington territory, stopped in front of THE OREGONIAN office and discoursed three excellent selections.

This band, the only self supporting organization of its kind in this city, has greatly improved within the last few months under the efficient leadership of Mr. Charles A. Jones, and to-day it will compare favorably with any band in the Northwest. The selections THE OREGONIAN force were favored with last night were:

"Golden Eagle," quickstep.

Potpourri, "Oh Fair Dove, Oh Fond Dove."

"Marine Band Waltz," composed by Charles A. Jones.

The music was a pleasant relief after several hours of quill driving, and THE OREGONIAN begs to acknowledge the compliment.

AMUSEMENTS

"Iolanthe" was repeated last evening at New Park theater to a large and well pleased audience. The opera ran very smoothly from opening to close. "Nell Gwynne" was to have been produced to-night, but owing to the degree of success that has attended "Iolanthe," it will be repeated this evening.

MY GERALDINE

EAST PORTLAND SEWERS.

The Commission Held a Preliminary Meeting Last Evening.

No Definite Action Taken—That Ring Case—A Lively Runaway—Rev. G. M. Pierce Tendered a Pleasant Reception.

The sewerage commission, appointed by the common council some time ago, met in the council chambers last night. Mayor Stewart, who is the chairman, called the meeting to order. He read the ordinance under which the commission was appointed, which is as follows:

SECTION 1—That a commission be created with full power to examine into the matter of sewerage and provide the plans and details of such a system as they deem the most desirable and report the same to the council as soon as possible.

Sec. 2—This commission shall consist of the mayor, who shall be the chairman of the same, five taxpayers to be appointed by the mayor, the city engineer, the city attorney and three members of the common council to be appointed by the common council.

Sec. 3—That the sum of $500, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the general fund for the purpose of defraying all necessary expenses in obtaining plans and details for such system and estimates of cost of same as may be approved by said commission.

The sewerage commission is composed as follows: Mayor Stewart, Surveyor O. H. [illegible], Attorney Beach, Councilmen McMahon, Lewis and Murphy, [illegible] D. S. [illegible] Joseph, Thomas Hislop, A. W. Lambert, William Dalton and F. A. Bancroft.

There were present Councilmen Murphy, McMahon and Lewis, Mayor Stewart and William Dalton, Thomas Hislop, A. W. Lambert and City Attorney Beach.

Dr. Joseph asked if any action had ever been taken to secure a plan of sewerage.

Mr. J. J. Murphy stated that some time ago the sewerage question had been referred to the city surveyor and nothing definite had yet been accomplished.

Mr. McMahon said the first thing would be to establish and find out the grade of the city. This is one thing the very first step to be taken.

Dr. Joseph [illegible] in favor of having the city surveyor [illegible] be [illegible] the grade. [illegible] a committee be appointed to consult with some [illegible] in the matter.

Mr. Hislop and Lewis both thought a table of [illegible] should be prepared. Mr. Dalton suggested that the council [illegible] first [illegible] what kind of sewerage is wanted. City Attorney Beach said he had talked with sanitary engineers and understood from them that a plan could not be proposed for less than $600, which was $100 less than the sum appropriated by the ordinance.

On motion the city council was requested to have prepared a contour map of the city for the use of the commission.

On motion Dr. S. E. Joseph, Wm. Dalton and A. W. Lambert were appointed a committee to enter into correspondence with sanitary engineers with a view to eliciting information on the subject of sewerage.

Mr. Murphy said the sewerage question and the water question are to be considered, as sewerage could not be introduced without water to flush them with.

Mr. Hislop remarked that it would be necessary to have the legislature make some amendments to the city charter to give the city enlarged power. The charter now provides for sewerage the same as street improvement. It would be necessary to have several main sewers running through the city, and it will have to be settled how and by whom these are to be paid for.

The meeting last night was an informal one, and yet a great many important points were discussed. It seemed to be the sense of the commission that a system should be adopted such as can be put in detail. Another meeting will be called by the chair when the committee is ready to report, when some definite action may be taken.

PLEASANT RECEPTION

The ladies of the Adams street M. E. church tendered Rev. G. M. Pierce a reception Tuesday evening in the church. There were about 100 in attendance. Mr. Pierce has been the minister in charge for two years, and at the last meeting of the conference he was appointed for the third time.

The exercises were as follows: Singing, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name"; prayer by the Rev. Mr. Meade; address of welcome, [illegible]; solo, "The New Kingdom," Miss Wood; "When the Leaves Begin to Fall," Mrs. Fox; duet, Mr. Lloyd and daughter; [illegible], Mrs. Haines; presentation address by [illegible], who on behalf of the ladies of the church and congregation presented the pastor with a purse of $13.25 as a token of their esteem and Christian fellowship.

Rev. Pierce responded in an excellent address, in which he spoke of the future of the church in glowing terms and in strong language gave expression of his feelings for the reception tendered him.

Coffee and cake were served and a pleasant evening was spent.

THAT RING

The man who attempted to sell a ring at Logan's drug store was arraigned before the recorder yesterday. He gave his name as Charles Johnson, which was probably not the correct one. The ring was not found on him, and he was held for ten days on a charge of vagrancy. He evidently had passed the ring to his partner, who was with him. It was ascertained yesterday that the ring had been stolen in Albany. Marshal Morgan received a handbill which contained a long list of jewelry that had been stolen in Albany. Among the list the ring was named. A reward was offered for the apprehension of the parties. They evidently were in East Portland Tuesday.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY

A lively runaway occurred in Holladay's addition yesterday. Some man whose name was not learned was driving in a buggy near Captain Scott's residence, when the horse became unmanageable and pulled the buggy over an embankment, breaking a shaft. The horse then struck out at full speed. After running some distance he became detached from the greater portion of the buggy and disappeared out [illegible] avenue with part of the wreck hanging to him. The driver escaped without injury.

A WAY TO MAKE MONEY

In any of the towns of from 4000 to 10,000 population in any of the states west of Pennsylvania, where the maximum of population has been reached, property has a fixed, certain value. In residence property on, which is within a few blocks from the postoffice or business centers, the price of lots are as standard as the price of ordinary staples. Such residence property will command, owing to the town, from $500 to $5000 per lot. In West run towns the limit of growth exists only with the ending of immigration. In Oregon the growth of towns has just commenced. There is every just reason to believe that the town of La Grande will be a city with 10,000 people in two or three years or less time. Property there is just entering its active period. All property bought so far has been for improvement now or in the future. Five hundred more people would add three times to the value of present prices. The investment of $80 to $125 in one of the Wisdom addition lots will bring 100 per cent advance ere long. If you want to lay by a little money and want it doubled, buy one of these lots. The public school building is but two blocks from the addition. Write J. K. Romig, real estate agent, La Grande, or call at drug store, corner First and Stark streets, Portland.

"Yes, sir," said Digberry, excitedly to his friend Pallooly. "I was positively held up and by the cheekiest thief that ever padded the road. I had been out with the boys, and was going home straight as a string, honor bright, when a fellow jumps out on me and cries, 'Hold up your hands!' Up they went, and he went through me. Not a red. I'd dropped everything on the last deal. 'Well,' he says, 'if you haven't any money give me them pants.' So I had to sit down and take off the nice new pair I bought of Kohn only last week. 'Say,' he says, looking at the pants, 'where did you buy them?' At Kohn's, on Morrison street. 'Well then,' he says, 'never try to beat four aces.'"
